'GRAND TRUNK TO BOOM BOSTON' —Fitzhugh

"We Can Materially Increase the Trade of Port of Boston," Says Official of the Continental Line.

Five years will be required, at the best, for the Grand Trunk railroad to get its lines into Boston, but, once it gets here, it will boom business for the port of Boston.

Earl H. Fitzhugh, president of the Southern New England Railroad, the Massachusetts branch of the Grand Trunk, in making his closing argument to the legislative Committee on Railroads today for the Grand Trunk to be allowed to enter Boston, said emphatically:

We can very materially increase the business to and through the Port of Boston. In the great Western States we have a large staff of officials who are soliciting traffic for our lines and, if we are permitted to come to Boston, their energies will be directed toward securing more business for this port.

Before the hearing closed Representative George E. Ellis of the committee asked President Fitzhugh if he favored a general Massachusetts law prohibiting railroads to control street railways. President Fitzhugh replied:

Must Develop Transportation.

"Yes, there should be such a law. I favor permitting railroads to develop transportation by any proper and lawful means. Railroad companies should be allowed to control street railways and steamship lines. That is along the line of development, and that is just what Boston needs."

This railroad control of trolleys is contrary to the ideas expressed by ex-Representative Norman H. White of Brookline, who told the committee yesterday that the Grand Trunk should not have the charter right to acquire trolley lines.

"We have had enough trolley omelets served up by the New Haven, and we don't want the Grand Trunk to think that it can also acquire trolleys, ad lib.," declared Mr. White. But he said that he thought it would be a good thing for the railroad to acquire what steamships it desires.

Mr. White, speaking in that same connection yesterday, said he thought the Grand Trunk should not be forced to electrify its lines within the metropolitan radius unless existing lines are also included. "The New Haven road, by the way," he said, "promised electrification as a bait to put the holding bill through, but its promises have come to nothing." Mr. White also recommended that the new road be called the "Boston & Montreal," saying it is a question how long the Boston & Maine will retain its name, and that Boston has lost prestige in railroad nomenclature.

Would Require Five Years.

That the Grand Trunk will require five years to come into Boston was explained by President Fitzhugh in answer to a question by Representative Ellis. He said:

"It will require at least five years before the Grand Trunk can determine just the property it wants in Boston. It will require at least that time to the road to determine just its takings throughout the State and leading into the city. If Massachusetts were a new and undeveloped country, I could promise we would get here in less than one-half that time, but you have populous cities here, and populous towns and villages, so the proposition is much more difficult, and many more obstacles will be thrown in our way, and of necessity, then if we were to go through a new country."

Representative Ellis and President Fitzhugh exchanged arguments relative to a remark quoted in the Montreal Star of President Hays of the Grand Trunk. The Montreal paper quoted the head of the Grand Trunk as saying that the result of the proposed extension to Boston would not be to bring Canadian trade to Boston, but to divert through Boston the commerce of New England to Canada. When Mr. Fitzhugh said President Hays never said that existing Canadian trade with Boston American traffic would be diverted to Canada.

Today's hearing was the next to the last for the proponents of the Grafd Trunk extension. D. O. Ives, transportation expert of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, will be heard Monday from the point of view of a rate man.

When the hearing opened James A. Halloran presented the resolutions adopted by the State board of trade at a meeting advocating the admittance of the Grand Trunk to Boston.

COL. ROOSEVELT RICHER BY $36.40

MINEOLA, March 14.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt ended his experience as a juror today at his own request. As a result of his nine days' presence in the Nassau County Supreme Court the colonel is $36.40 richer, $27 of this sum being earned by his jury duties and the balance being allowed by the State for traveling expenses.

Cambridge Subway Open for Public on Saturday, March 23

Official Announcement by the Elevated of Train Service in the New Tube.

The new Cambridge Subway will be officially opened for public service on Saturday morning, March 23. The first train will leave Harvard Square at 5:24 a. m. and arrive at Park street at 5:34 a. m. with a running time between the two stations of about eight minutes. The first train to leave Park street will be at 5:34 a. m.

The last train to leave Harvard square on Saturday night will be at 12:32, while 12:42 a. m. will be the time of departure from Park street. This will be the regular time for the last trains on both week days and Sundays.

The Elevated Company will run two, three or four cars to a train as the traffic demands, and they will be run at intervals of from two to four minutes.

The new route from Park street, Boston, to Harvard square, Cambridge, is via a tunnel under Beacon Hill, then over a short piece of elevated structure, over Cambridge bridge and through the Cambridge subway to Harvard square. The distance will be 3.29 miles.

Work on the elevated end of the line was begun in Boston on June 1, 1911. Work on the subway in Cambridge was officially begun on July 12, 1909.

The stations between Harvard square and Park street are Harvard square, Central square, Kendall street and Park street. There is about a mile of distance between stations.

Pompeiian Saloon of 79 A. D. Is Unearthed

Complete Equipment of Wine Jars and Ivory Till With Coins of Silver in Ruins.

PARIS, March 14.—In a shop excavated in the "Street of Abundance" leading to the Amphitheatre at Pompeii has been found a row of wine jars so placed that it would seem that one was pouring wine from one into the other when he was overtaken by the wave of lava in A. D. 79.

According to a writer in the Tempa, the shop may be regarded as nothing more or less than an early Roman saloon. The cash till made of ivory, was found just as it was left by the panic-stricken owner. It contains a quantity of silver coins.

LORILLARD SPENCER, SOCIETY LEADER, IS DEAD AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., March 14.—Lorillard Spencer, millionaire lawyer and one of the leaders of Newport's exclusive social set, died here today, aged fifty-two. He was a member of many Newport, Boston and New York clubs.

Mr. Spencer was born in New York, February 14, 1860. He was the son of Lorillard and Sarah J. (Grinnell) Spencer. He was educated in Europe and Columbia College Law School. On October 3, 1882, he married in New York Caroline S. Berrybridge, granddaughter of Stephen Whitney. He passed much time abroad. Mr. Lorillard was commissioner from Rhode Island to the World's Columbian Exposition, at Chicago. He was a Republican and belonged to the Society of Colonial Wards, Sons of the Revolution as well as many other organizations.

RED TAPE CUT BY KING GEORGE FOR MRS. REID

LONDON, March 14.—King George has ordered that the wives of ambassadors take rank with their husbands. Hitherto the wives of ambassadors to the court of St. James had no rank of their own. If they appeared at court unattended by their husbands they were obliged to take a low position in the procession, coming after the junior ministers. The continued indisposition of Whitelaw Reid, the American ambassador, as well as the illness of the Marquis Imperiali, the Italian ambassador, and the wives of these two diplomats in a delicate position. At the last court Mrs. Reid refrained from attending. King George immediately cut this red tape through the master of ceremonies he issued the order, so Mrs. Reid should be able to present her fellow countrywomen at Thursday night's function.

MAKES FIVE HOURS' VISIT AFTER TRIP OF 12,000 MILES

A trip of 12,000 miles, just to spend five hours in Naples, is the record established by Mrs. J. E. Schadle of St. Paul, Minn., who arrived here today on the Canopic. Mrs. Schadle arrived in Naples at 10 a. m., only to learn that unless she took the Canopic, which sailed at 9 p. m., she would have to wait two or three weeks before she could get another steamer back to the United States. Her baggage was transferred from the Kaiserine Augusta Victoria to the Canopic and she returned to America after remaining in Naples hardly long enough to have luncheon. When she reaches her home at St. Paul, Mrs. Schadle will have traveled 12,000 miles and set a new long distance short stay record for the port of Boston.

MAYOR HOLDS UP STRIKE MEETING

LAWRENCE, March 14.—While nine out of every ten people in Lawrence believe that the textile strikers are ready to vote in mass meeting to return to work in response to the advance in wages offered by the American Woolen Company, Mayor Scanlon declared today that he would prevent the mass meeting on the Common, arranged for 2 o'clock this afternoon, unless proper permission was obtained from him.

The strikers obtained permission from Alderman O'Brien, the Commissioner of Parks. They declare that they will not approach the Mayor in connection with the matter, but hold the meeting anyhow, as the constitution permits the peaceful assemblage of citizens, and this is to be a peaceful meeting.

Will Meet Schedule.

"Alderman O'Brien had no right to grant permission for this meeting," said Mayor Scanlon to-day. "Unless permission is gained from me for this meeting I shall prevent it. If I were asked for permission and assured that it was to be a peaceful meeting I should probably grant it."

In spite of this attitude of the Mayor it is believed that the meeting will be held and that the strike will be practically ended this afternoon and the strikers return to work next Monday.

The wage scales of three of the independent mills are so near that of the American Woolen Company that it is generally believed that the strikers will accept them and return to work with the whole body of strikers.

Agent Robinson of the Ewwoo Mill today declared they would meet the concessions of the woolen company.

Agent and owner William D. Kunhardt of the Kunhardt Mill said:

"There is practically no difference between our schedule and that offered by the American Woolen Company. I think that ours will be accepted."

"Our schedule was posted a week ago," said Agent Parker of the Pacific Mills, "and I do not think we will have to change it."

The lockout at the Everett Mill, which began with the beginning of the strike, still continues and it was said today that the 2,500 hands employed in the mill would probably be out of work for several weeks more.

Stand Pat on Offer.

That the Arlington and Pacific mills "stand pat" on their old offer was shown today. Franklin W. Hobbs, treasurer of the Arlington Mills, said:

"We have already granted an increase ranging from five per cent. up, averaging a little over seven per cent., to our employes. A notice to this effect was posted in our factories on March 1. It went into effect March 4, and our employes are all satisfied. Eighty-five per cent. of our employes are at work. We have more at work today than there were yesterday. Further than that, there is nothing to say."

At the offices of the Pacific Mills in Boston it was stated that the company had increased the wages of its employes according to the notice which was posted in their mills March 1 and that most of their employes are at work. This company claims it has 4,400 at work.

This means that these companies are standing pat on their increase of wages offered directly to their employes March 1.

ADVERSE REPORT ON STEEL SCHEDULE

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The Senate Finance Committee today voted to report adversely on the House bill revising the steel and metal schedule.

FRICK NAMED AS TECH GIVER

Henry Clay Frick, the Pittsburg steel millionaire, was named today as the man who gave the $2,500,000 building fund to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology just announced by President Richard C. Maclaurin. It is the general opinion among Tech men to-day that Frick is the anonymous donor.

In announcing the donation Mr. Maclaurin told the members of the Tech corporation that the donor would remain anonymous, but he gave some clew as to who the man was in that he said he was not a graduate of Tech nor was he a Massachusetts man. It was also stated that the donor was very much interested in Tech and engineering work in general and that he approved of the plans already made for a new and bigger Tech.

With these facts it is certain that the gift did not come from the Du Pont family in Delaware, as two of the Du Ponts are graduates of the institute.

Frick Maclaurin's Friend.

The one other man left in the elimination is Henry Clay Frick. He could well afford to give this amount; he is a personal friend of Dr. Maclaurin, and for a number of years has been watching the work being done by the various technical schools throughout the country.

Mr. Frick has been drawn into close touch with many branches of engineering through his connection with the steel industry. He has seen the efficient work accomplished by Tech men who have gone to Pittsburg and other steel centres, and no doubt has felt the influence of the strong Tech alumni association in Pittsburg and Carough Pennsylvania.

Mr. Frick is now traveling in Egypt with J. P. Morgan and Bishop Lawrence.

President Maclaurin expects that the price, $775,000, will be paid for the new site and the whole transaction closed in a few days. The area to be taken is nearly 2,000,000 feet. Ten thousand dollars will be paid the city of Cambridge when proposed changes in certain streets about the property are actually made.

President Maclaurin said to a reporter: "My promise to the donor of the two and a half million dollars to Technology places me under obligations so that I am unable in any way to assist in disclosing his identity. The fund on hand which we can have any time it is wanted will complete the new buildings.

At Work in Six Months.

"I should say in perhaps six months we will be able to start work on the Cambridge location.

"The person who presented the fund to the institute is in no way connected with Technology. He has heard for years of the institute work, and men—you can take for example men like Edison—have told him of Technology. His name, I presume, he has desired to keep in the background owing to the fact that he might possibly be pressed by other people for funds."

HERBERT W. BURR QUITS ROOSEVELT

Former Representative Herbert W. Burr of Dorchester, candidate for the Republican nomination for State Auditor last fall, who recently announced he would be a Roosevelt candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention, today issues this:

"After careful consideration of political events which have transpired since my announcement of January 16 to be a Roosevelt candidate for delegate to the Chicago convention, I have decided not to enter the contest, for I cannot subscribe to the issues as set forth by Colonel Roosevelt in his speech at Columbus, nor to the methods adopted by the Progressive League here in Massachusetts. I particularly resent the attempts to put Senator Crane in the role of a State boss."

Assassinate Judge, State Attorney and Sheriff in Court

Notorious "Allen Gang" Open Fire When Their Leader Is Declared Guilty of Crime.

RICHMOND, Va., March 14.—Rising from their seats just as a verdict of guilty had been pronounced against their leader, twenty members of the notorious "Allen gang" of Carroll county today poured a fusillade of rifle and revolver shots at the court in the Hillsville, Va., courthouse, killing Judge Thornton L. Massie, William M. Foster, the Commonwealth's attorney; Sheriff L. F. Webb, James Douglass, a juror, and another juror whose name has not yet been learned. Several others were wounded by flying bullets.

A local desperado named Floyd Allen, leader of the shooting band, had just been found guilty of a felony when his followers carried out a threat they had made to shoot up the court if the case went against their chief.

General disorder broke out following the shooting. Governor Mann rushed two companies of State militia to the scene of the tragedy.

Hillsville is situated high in the mountains and the inhabitants are of the boldest type of sharpshooting mountaineers. After the five men had been shot to death the members of the gang left the courthouse and took to the mountains. However, many of their friends and relatives openly paraded the streets of the village with exposed weapons making threats.

A posse was organized and started in pursuit of the assailants.

Judge Massie was not killed outright, but was so seriously wounded that he died within a few minutes. His body rolled onto the floor of the courthouse before the bench, and by there while the desperadoes poured their deadly bullets over it.

SHAW ENGAGES VAHEY AS COUNSEL AT LARCENY TRIAL

Arthur W. Shaw, charged with the theft of $10,000 from the Shaw Shoe Company of Freeport, Me., by wire from Los Angeles today engaged James H. Vahey as his counsel. Mr. Vahey at once went to the court house and entered his appearance as Shaw's counsel.

Shaw will arrive in Boston next Monday in the company of Captain Armstrong and Inspector Liedlis. His arraignment is expected to take place the following day.

Ten counts charging larceny will be preferred against Shaw, as principal in the case.

Thirty counts, charging the receipt of stolen goods, as well as being an accessory before and after the fact, will be preferred against Mrs. Georgia M. Stuart, the alleged accomplice of Shaw in the defalcation.

PACKERS WILL PUT ON NO WITNESSES IN THEIR DEFENCE

CHICAGO, March 14.—Defence was waived by the ten packers in the beef trust today. The case will be submitted on evidence already in and on argument. The decision is said to have been reached after some of the packers refused to take the stand in their own behalf. The case was adjourned until Monday following the packers' announcement not to present defence witnesses. Argument will begin Monday.

NOONDAY FIRE PLAYS FREAKS

There was a freak fire on Summer street at noon today. It didn't damage the building, No. 97 Summer street, more than $700, but it did prove oddly disastrous to a score of employes, men and women, in Rondé & Co.'s new cafe and delicatessen shop which has been doing business since Saturday.

The little fire that there was burned out quickly or destroyed the street clothing of the cafe employes. The cooks and kitchen hands will have to go home in their white rigs, the dish washers in their calico dresses and aprons and the dozen waiters in dress suits, except a few who managed to save overcoats.

One of the kitchen girls, Helen Taivits, said it was the second cafe fire she was mixed up with in two weeks and she lost a skirt with $45 in the pocket in the last.

Although there was little fire there was much smoke. It forced its way into adjoining buildings and caused much alarm among seventy-five girls in the Consolidated Waist Manufacturing Company on the fourth floor of No. 120 Bedford street which backs up to the building where the fire started.

The girls got more scared when they saw the firemen hoisting a ladder by mistake on the Bedford street side. Bertha Kaufman, bookkeeper in the waist shop, tucked the books and money in the safe and then told the girls to follow her by a stairway which led into a Kingston street building because they encountered smoke the other way. Several of the girls fainted. Dora Spaklora became hysterical.

The fire was discovered burning through a petition in the cellar adjoining that of the cafe. Those in the kitchen made hasty exits and Assistant Chief George Portrait rang in alarms from two boxes. The waiters, in dress suits, tried to put out the flames with buckets. They were forced back by the smoke. Diners in the cafe made hasty exits, one or two forgetting to pay their checks.

No. 97 Summer street is a five-story stone structure. It is apocupied save for the cafe on the street floor. Rondé & Co.'s stock was not damaged. The flames worked up the elevator shaft, but did little harm. The lockers where the help had their clothes was the centre of the fire. Only a few saved their street apparel.

ASSASSIN SHOOTS AT KING VICTOR

Anarchist Attacks Italian Monarch Going to Service in Honor of Father, Slayer's Victim

Queen Helena Strives to Save Husband. Crowd Falls on Young Assailant, Almost Killing Him

ROME, March 14.—King Victor Emmanuel barely escaped assassination today as he was riding through the street, when a young man in the crowd that was attracted fired three shots directly at the monarch. The King was accompanied by Queen Helena.

All shots missed. One hit Major Langa of the Royal Carabineers, who was riding at the side of the King's carriage, wounding him painfully.

Before the young man could fire a fourth shot men and women leaped on him, hurled him to the street and kicked and stamped him almost lifeless. The police and soldiers had to fight to rescue him from the infuriated crowd. The young man was stabbed in one eye in the scuffle.

When taken into custody and revived sufficiently to talk the prisoner said his name was Antonio Dalba, a Roman anarchist, twenty-one years old. It was believed by the authorities the name is fictitious.

King Emmanuel was on his way to the Pantheon to attend a memorial service on the anniversary of the funeral of his father, King Humbert, who was shot and killed by an anarchist near Milan on July 29, 1900.

The royal carriage was passing through the Plaza of Venezia when the attack was made.

Dowager Queen Is Thankful.

"It was an act of Heaven that he escaped," exclaimed Dowager Queen Margherita.

"Italy never before needed the services of her King more than now when she is in the throes of war."

Queen Helena gave a splendid exhibition of her devotion to her husband and her own courage. When the first pistol shot was fired the Queen, realizing instinctively that an attempt was being made to kill her husband, threw her arms about the King's neck, apparently with thoughts of protecting him with her own body. Victor gently disengaged her arms, assuring her he had not been hurt.

News of the attempted assassination was conveyed to Pope Pius at the Vatican. After celebrating the usual pontifical mass, the Pope retired to his private chapel and remained in prayer for some time.

Premier Giolotti was among the first to express his pleasure to King Victor in person that the assailant's bullet had missed its mark.

"The death of the King at this time, especially through the agency of violence, would be a calamity to Italy," said the Premier.

Procession Only Halted.

The procession to the Pantheon was halted but a few moments, when it proceeded to its destination. At the conclusion of the mass for King Humbert, the King and Queen returned to the Quirinal along the same route by which they had traveled to the Pantheon.

When the King returned to the palace he learned for the first time that Major Langa had been shot. The King got into an automobile and hurried to Giacoma Hospital, where the wounded officer had been taken.

When the crowds caught sight of the King they cheered him wildly and cried over and over again, "Long live the King!"

The King found that Major Langa had been shot in the head. It was said he would probably recover. King Victor, grasping the wounded man by the hand, fervently expressed hope that he would be well soon.

"We need such men as you," said the King.

At the police station Dalba told this story:

"My name is Antonio Dalba. I am a stone mason and I am twenty-one years old. I am an individual anarchist.

"I made the attempt on the King's life as a protest against the organization of society. I took up a position in the crowd near the Odescalch palace and waited for the coming of the King. I fired three shots at him."

Queen With the King.

The King was accompanied by Queen Helena, who remained calm throughout the exciting scene. The life of King Victor, and perhaps that of the Queen also, was probably saved by the fact that contrary to his usual custom the monarch was riding in a closed carriage. The royal pair could be but dimly seen through the glass in the carriage door by those on the streets.

News of the attempt to take their sovereign's life had spread before the approach of the carriage and the crowds about the Pantheon welcomed the King with an enthusiastic demonstration.

The police put Dalba through a rigid examination to learn how well the plot had been laid, where it was hatched and how many others were concerned in the conspiracy.

One theory suggested was that the youthful assailant had gone mad while brooding over the Tripolitan war and the loss of life which it was causing. Another was that Dalba was in the pay of the Turkish government and had taken a long chance of earning a big fee by killing the monarch.

The King has displayed no uneasiness over the undercurrent of opposition to the war in Tripoli, expressed in some quarters, and has often told his ministers he had no fear of walking abroad among his subjects.

King Victor is greatly beloved by his subjects and Queen Helena is equally popular. Theirs was a royal love match and the devotion of the royal pair is still commented upon in Italy.

Had Socialist Leanings.

King Victor had strong leanings toward Socialism and the authorities doubt if the attempt on his life had anything to do with the Socialist propaganda.

Victor Emmanuel III. was born at Naples, November 11, 1869. He attended Oxford University.

He married Helene, Princess of Montenegro, and has four children, Princess Yolanda Margherita, born in Rome, June 1, 1901; Princess Mafalda Maria, born at Rome, November 19, 1902; Prince Humbert, born September 15, 1904; and Princess Giovanna Elisabetta, born at Rome, November 13, 1907.

"I am a Socialist, said the King, recently, 'but my Socialism is more individualistic and more radical than that of the average Socialist of today. I hate the program of a Socialistic party which deals with only the economic side of life. Socialism should not mean equality of wealth, but equality of opportunity. On the other hand I am opposed to the idea that the State shall be the owner of every capitalistic system. I, as a statesman, know from my experience that it would lead to a dangerous bureaucracy. My idea is that municipalities and counties should own that which the Socialists want the State to own. The only thing for the State to control would be the education.'

"'If the people want a monarch, let them have one. If they want a republic, well, they may have it. But what I want is the United States of the World. There should be one President of the world, to be elected once every five years.'

Horror of Publicity.

There are two things of which Victor Emmanuel entertains a horror. One is publicity concerning himself, while the other has to do with the question of his stature. The latter is a subject on which he is extremely sensitive, and yet it is necessary to refer thereto in order to portray him. The qualities of royalty are not, however, measured by inches, and, as in the case of the late Queen Victoria, whose height he only slightly surpasses, his bearing and his observance of such that all sense of his shortness, quickly disappears.

That Victor Emmanuel should, in spite of his being the shortest monarch in Europe, have become one of the most commanding figures of royalty, speaks volumes for his character.

Victor Emmanuel is not dark or swarthy, as most people who have not seen him seem to believe, but blond, like his grandfather and namesake, who was, however, wont to dye his mustache and hair, with the object of imparting a more martial appearance to his features. The present King's eyes are of a piercing blue, and his mustache, like his hair, is fair, presenting a striking contrast to the raven hue of the magnificent tresses of his Montenegrin-born consort, Queen Helena.

His eyes attract and interest those who see him for the first time. They convey assurance of the transparent honesty of the man, of his horror of everything that is mean and dishonorable, of his impatience of all humbug and affectation, of his warmth of heart where kindness is needed, and of his severity in cases where discipline and punishment are indispensable.

He entertains the utmost aversion to everything that is in the least degree shady or questionable. He has driven out of the army a number of officers who have rendered themselves guilty of unsoldierly financial transactions, he abhors speculation, and he has little or no mercy for the promoters, titled and otherwise, of those speculative French financial enterprises which have wrecked so many fortunes in Italy.

A short time before his father's death he happened to be obliged to receive in audience a Roman count, whom he knew had been sneering at the late King's democratic ways. Just as the count was about to take his leave Victor Emmanuel, with a smile, exclaimed, "By the by, I note that you are president of the Blank Company?"

Somewhat embarrassed, the count replied, "Certainly. One must find some outlet for one's activities."

Doctors Use This for Eczema

Dr. Evans, ex-Commissioner of Health, says: "There is almost no relation between skin diseases and the blood. Eczema is a skin disease." The skin must be cured through the skin. The germs must be washed out, and so salves have long ago been found worthless. The most advanced physicians of this country are now agreed on this, and are prescribing a wash of wintergreen, thymol and other ingredients for eczema and all other skin diseases. This compound is known as D. D. D. Prescription for eczema.

Dr. Holmes, the well-known skin specialist, writes: "I am convinced that the D. D. D. Prescription is as much a specific for eczema as quinine for malaria. We have been prescribing the D. D. D. remedy for years."

If you are suffering from any form of skin trouble, we would like to have you call at our store, for we have had the agency of this remedy for so many years that we can tell you all about D. D. D. Prescription and how it cures eczema. In fact, we are so sure of what D. D. D. will do for you that we will be glad to let you have a $1 bottle on our guarantee that it will cost you nothing unless you find that it does the work. For that matter a trial bottle for 25c ought to be enough to absolutely prove the merits of the remedy.

Drop into our store anyway and we will tell you all about this great remedy.

20TH CENTURY WRECK IS LAID TO POOR RAILS

NEW YORK, March 14.—All New York State, and in fact the whole Eastern section of the country, is asking the question: "What's the matter with the New York Central?"

The latest issue of a well-known magazine has for its leading article "The Wrecking of a Railroad Dynasty," referring to the Goulds, who tried to run railroads and play polo and bridge whist at the same time.

The wreck of the famous Twentieth Century Limited near Poughkeepsie yesterday, when five cars plunged into the Hudson River, and the numerous other wrecks of fast trains on the Central system, together with the long list of delays and other mishaps, have started the public wondering if the Vanderbilt management is going to pieces by the same route as did that of the Goulds.

As a matter of fact, the Vanderbilts are only minority stockholders now, though they still maintain control through courtesy of the stockholders who continue to get their dividends.

May Be National Inquiry.

The officials of the Steel Companies declare that the railroads are using an overburdened and cheaper rail. This charge has set both State and National authorities thinking, and a national inquiry into the recent wrecks of fast trains may be the result.

Here is the astonishing record for the Central system in the last week:

Yesterday the Twentieth Century Limited, eastbound, the swiftest and finest train run by the New York Central between New York and Chicago, was glutted at Hyde Park, four and one-half miles north of Poughkeepsie. Fourteen passengers were injured.

The Twentieth Century Limited, westbound, was wrecked seven days ago at Collinwood yards, just outside of Cleveland. One person was killed, nineteen hurt.

The eastbound flyer, No. 20, on the Big Four branch of the New York Central, crashed head-on into a freight train at Terre Haute, Ind., on Tuesday of this week. One person was killed, many slightly injured.

A week ago today the New York Central Limited, running from St. Louis to New York, collided with a freight train at Bellefontaine, Ohio. Two persons were injured.

Cars Jumped Into River.

Entering the homestretch of its Chicago-New York run, the Twentieth Century struck a fractured rail. It was traveling on a curve at a speed admitted by the company to have been forty-five miles an hour, and said by some of the passengers to have been seventy-miles an hour.

Five Pullman sleepers were shot off the line down an embankment and into the Hudson. In these were about fifty persons.

Only the fact that there was an eighteen-inch coating of ice over the river saved the lives of most of these. The semi-solid surface kept the cars from plunging further outward, into water of drowning depth. In milder weather they most likely would have been all submerged.

Luck and Steel Saved Lives.

That bit of luck—and the fact that the cars were steel—saved a long death list. But it was apparently lax construction or inspection of the roadbed that caused the wreck.

Fourteen persons were injured, a quarter of a mile of track was torn up, all trains delayed from one to three hours and $50,000 worth of equipment in the river.

The broken rail was the primary cause. This was a standard length piece of steel, put down in June, 1910. It was marked in raised figures on its side: "Lackawanna, 1910." It is said that all rails of the Lackawanna type are manufactured by the United States Steel Corporation at its Bethlehem works.

Broken rails are held responsible for the wrecks of a dozen or more fast trains within the last few weeks.

This particular rail, when examined closely after yesterday's accident, plainly showed that it had been fractured for a considerable time, for on the remaining side of the "break" was dark red rust, of the sort which accumulates after days, not hours, of exposure to the elements.

Rails on "Soft" Pine.

A contributing cause of the wreck, experts said, was the fact that all the rails thereabouts, on a "banked" curve of the line, were fastened to "soft" Georgia pine ties. When there was an unusual strain upon these, the spikes pulled away and the rails, for hundreds of yards, were forced out of place.

Of course there will be the usual "rigid investigation."

FOR ELECTRIC RAIL SYSTEM

The legislative Committee on Railroads today voted unanimously to report favorably a bill to compel all railroads operating within a ten-mile radius of Boston to electrify their systems and to complete the work by January 1, 1920. The report came as a surprise to State House circles. The fight for such a measure has been waged on Beacon Hill for several years, but heretofore has been unsuccessful.

OFFER BROOKS $7,000 POSITION

Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, superintendent of Boston public schools, has been offered the presidency of the University of Oklahoma at Norman, Okla., recently to dispatches today from Oklahoma City. The offer carries a salary of $7,000 a year. It was reported in Boston that Dr. Brooks had received no offer of this nature. Today the report was confirmed in the Western dispatches.

WIDOW OF 19 TRIES SUICIDE

Mrs. Addie Bourke, a beautiful widow of nineteen, attempted to take her life by swallowing two ounces of iodine today at the home of a friend, Mrs. J. A. Forrest, of No. 29 Howard street, Lynn, and lies at the Lynn Hospital in a precarious condition.

When found moaning on the floor of the sitting room by Mrs. Forrest the suffering woman sobbed out:

"I want to die. This has been a hard old world for me since my husband died. Nobody cares for me—nobody but you."

Mrs. Forrest telephoned for Dr. Lougee and the police. After emergency treatment, the young woman was brought to the hospital. It was believed that she could not recover. She has a baby three months old.

Harvard Discovery Upsets Star Theory

Photographs Show Hydrogen on Spectrum of Errebos' New Star Shows Dark.

Professor Pickering has discovered through photographs taken at the Harvard Observatory that the hydrogen line on the spectrum of the new star discovered by Professor S. Errebos at Dombois, Norway, shows dark, instead of the usual bright yellow. If this dark line continues it will form the basis for a new star theory and perhaps upset some of the existing theories concerning the and origin composition of stars.

Photographs of the sky are made every night at the Harvard Observatory and it was from these that the discovery of Professor Errebos was confirmed. The first flash of the news is shown on the plate made Monday morning. Professor Pickering said:

Because the star has not been seen before, I ask no theory. Now that it has just been formed; it is several hundred years old beyond a doubt. The question of light is such that it takes that long for the rays to come the distance from thenova to the earth.

MARLBOROUGH HURT WHILE FOX HUNTING

MISS CAMERON, OR STURGES, WHO WAS WARD OF HAWLEY

MISS MARGARET CAMERON

NEW YORK, March 14.—Miss Margaret Cameron, the ward of the late Edwin F. Hawley, who receives $500,000 in property and a $25,000 life annuity from this estate, is Miss Emma Sturges, formerly a school teacher of Homestead, N. J. Her sister, Miss Mae Sturgis, a handsome blonde, disowns her. The sister lives at No. 1,153 Vyse avenue, the Bronx. She said today:

"I am not interested in Emma Sturges or Margaret Cameron. Both names mean nothing to me. Homestead is a long way off. It is asking much for me to remember back twenty years."

There is another sister, formerly Grace Sturges, but now married. She is living somewhere in this city.

Two Stories Told.

There are two stories about the manner in which Emma Sturges, or "Margaret Cameron" came into the life of Edwin F. Hawley. One is that the mother of the three girls, who knew Hawley in girlhood, appealed to him as an old friend to assist at least one of the girls and Hawley selected Emma.

Another and more romantic tale is that Hawley discovered Emma when looking over a right of way for a railroad route in West Hoboken. Emma was teaching school. The railroad operator, from his automobile, spied the comely school ma'am and fell in love.

At any rate, Emma Sturges gave up her school and left Homestead. She was never heard of her seldom after that. Word was brought to Homestead once that Emma Sturges was living in great style in New York, that she was "Hawley's girl" at the Waldorf, had a place on Long Island and rode around in an automobile.

Mother Died Poor.

Four years after Emma left Homestead her mother died. If the first story, that the mother obtained Hawley's aid for Emma, be true, the mother received great reward. Poverty followed her to the grave. Neither the mother nor the sisters profited a nickel by Hawley's interest in Emma Sturges.

The Hawley heirs have agreed upon a tentour trusteeship for the estate. This trusteeship will not include the part deeded to Miss Cameron, which consists of Mr. Hawley's city house at No. 10 East Sixtieth street, and his large country home at Babylon, L. I.

Frank H. Davis, Walter C. Crandell, William P. Hawley and Charles K. Seymour, are the trustees of the estate agreed upon by the heirs, the agreement providing, however, that the trusteeship shall terminate in five years or the death of either Mr. Hawley or Mr. Crandell.

Mother Saves Two Daughters' Lives

Auburndale Woman Snatches Blanket and Smothers Flames When Lamp Sets Fire to Children's Bed.

The presence of mind of Mrs. Anna Tasmanteers, wife of Albert Talmanteers of No. 107 Hancock street, Auburndale, saved her two daughters from burning to death.

The children are Rachel and Mary, aged five and four years respectively. Their mother was putting them to bed when one of them accidentally tipped over a screen, which upset a lighted lamp upon the bed.

In an instant the bed clothes were in flames, and the children were in the midst of them. Part of the blazing oil had spilled on Rachel's body. Mrs. Talmanteers snatched a blanket and smothered the flames. The children were only slightly burned.

SCARE AT OPERA WHEN ASBESTOS CURTAIN FALLS

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

A performance of "Il Trovatore" in full blood was curtailed, snuffed out, obliterated, smashed, eradicated, put out of business, by a runaway asbestos curtain last night.

A brilliant audience was terrified at the sight of the heavy gray curtain descending upon a crowded stage, and the singers and chorus were even more alarmed than the audience.

A puff of smoke, a dash of flame, and one of the greatest little panics in history might have started, but there was no sign or smell of such a thing, and most of the audience kept their seats, though a few score made for the exits.

The blowing out of a plug in the high pressure water pipe, which automatically released the asbestos curtain was responsible for the accident, and for one of the most extraordinary incidents which ever occurred at an opera.

Russell's Hoodoo Opera.

A grand orchestral concert of popular classics, like the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," the "Miserere" overture and such things, were sandwiched into the performance to keep the audience in their seats while the stage force hammered and sawed and banged away at the gallery which is supposed to raise the asbestos curtain, and it was nearly three quarters of an hour before the curtain was completed and the performance went on.

When it proceeded it became a comic opera, with such incidents as Leonora arising from the dead to save her life from a descending hack drop, which was being used as a drop curtain.

"Il Trovatore" is a hoodoo opera for Henry Russell, and it was with anxiety that he offered it for the first time this season on the thirteenth of the month.

The First Bad Sign.

It was in "Il Trovatore" at the Majestic Theatre five years ago that Russell had to submit to a constable accompanying the tenor about the stage to the amazement and indignation of the audience.

Only stern necessity was responsible for its being given last night, and even then Russell did not remember that it was the thirteenth of the month.

The opera had proceeded amiably enough through the first act, when Manrico, the gallant, had been taken ill a few minutes before it began, and Blanchart was put on at short notice. He did very well, and was very strong in his nefarious career.

Army Put to Rout.

The second act began and revealed the camp of the Count di Luna and his army. Azucena, the gypsy, had discovered secretly about the successful carrying off of Leonora from the convent under his very nose, and when old Ferrando played by the fiery Maria Gay, was dragged into camp by his soldiers. He demanded information from her of Manrico, which she refused to give.

Luna was singing and Maria was revelling in her most powerful dramatic aria, "How she did sing! She was carried away by her own voice.

Little did she realize that the asbestos curtain was slowly descending behind her head, but Blanchard did.

Mendi, the stage director, stood in the wings and waved for the orchestra to cease. It ceased well, and Mendi hurriedly grabbed Maria out of the way and the asbestos curtain covered them all up.

Fortunately Mr. Russell was on hand and took advantage of the scared silence to announce the cause of the accident.

In her dressing room Miss Elizabeth Amodio, the Leonora who was making her debut in the part, was panting and trying to assuage her nerves.

From an artistic point of view it would have been better if the audience had been dismissed with a few well chosen words, for the makeshifts of the next two acts were so ludicrous that the preventing anybody being interested in the dreadful fates of the people in the piece.

TALBOT'S
Holeproof Hosiery
PRIZE CONTEST
$20.00 in Gold FREE

I sat down with a song of contentment
To my sewing; sending each stitch
But alas! when I came to the stockings
The song from my heart died away.

Seven pairs, and oh, they were dreadful
Such holes in the heels and toe tops—
Then I quickly sent for Talbot's
And read of the Holegood Hose.

Down went my notion of darning—
'Twas relief from my terrible woes.
I took a car straight down to Talbot's
And purchased some Holeproof Hose.

Now I dread not the weekly mending,
No string, or no heels and toe tops,
I never shall cease to be thankful
For the wonderful Holeproof Hose.

ANGELA MORGAN, LATEST BOSTON VERSE WRITER

ANGELA MORGAN

Boston's newest poetess, Miss Angela Morgan of Arlington Heights, read her latest poem entitled "The Minimum Wage," before a meeting of the Women's Trade Union League in their headquarters at No. 7 Warrenton street last night.

Her poem on the minimum wage question has caused intense interest.

The verses tell of the great necessity of establishing the minimum wage for working people and the way people should treat this great question.

The poem was read for the first time at a recent Sunday night meeting in Ford Hall.

Its success was so great that the Miss Morgan has received many invitations to read before prominent women's clubs.

Her poetry first attracted attention in New York city. The Rev. Dr. Campbell Morgan, the London clergyman, was about to ascend his pulpit to deliver a sermon, when someone handed him a poem. The philosophic thought and verse expressed caused him to be amazed. He did not preach his sermon that day. He read the verses and from the Scriptural line contained in it obtained an inspiration for a wonderful sermon.

The poetess was at that time unknown to the great preacher.

BILLINGS LAST FRIEND OF HORSE

From the pure love of a good horse C. K. G. Billings has lost more than $50,000 for another class of horseflesh and at a time when there is no great scramble for champion of the turf. Mr. Billings may be said to be the last friend of the horse. He owns for the use of himself and his family more than twenty automobiles. He is said the number reached an even twenty-five the last time they were counted. But while automobiles are convenient they are nothing for which Mr. Billings can show affection, so he has just paid a fortune for The Harvester, a champion stallion with a record of 2.01.

And to further show his love for the horse and that others may share his pleasure he will send The Harvester and Uhlan, another world's champion he owns, to Russia where they will be shown as the best stallion and the best gelding in the world. The Billings horses, in charge of Charles Tanner of Cleveland, Mr. Billings' trainer, will leave about April 15 for Moscow. Uhlan was brought up from Brunswick, Ga., to Memphis a week ago. The Harvester was wintered in Memphis' by Ed Geers, the noted driver and trainer who has had charge of him ever since he was four years old. He is now seven years of age.

Mr. Billings purchased The Harvester from August Belmin of Milwaukee, who bought the horse as a three-year-old before he was broken to harness. He was turned over to Geers and from that time on his career was sensational.

Mr. Billings now owns three world's champion trotters—Lou Dillon, 1:55¾, champion mare; Uhlan, 1:58¾, champion gelding, and The Harvester, 2:01, champion stallion.

Mr. Billings made his money in Chicago gas, but moved to New York several years ago. Although a lover of horses he was not until his purchase of Lou Dillon that the horse world paid much attention to him. Although Mr. Billings has consented to matching his horses against others for the pure sport of the thing, he never allows them to be raced in open competition. It is likely that after their return from Russia, late this Summer, both The Harvester and Uhlan will be taken in hand preparatory to training them for efforts against world's records in 1913. It is worthy of note that both Lou Dillon and Uhlan made their best records after passing into the hands of Mr. Billings.

REPORT EXCISE TAX MEASURE

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Defending both the constitutionality and the necessity of the "excise tax bill," which will be used by the Democrats to compensate for the loss of $53,000,000 in revenue if sugar is placed on the free list, the majority members of the Ways and Means Committee made a unanimous report to the House today of the entire bill. The measure will be called up in the House immediately after the passage of the free sugar bill, its companion.

The Democratic members of the committee say they favor a straight income tax, but doubt is expressed of the constitutionality of such a law until the States having agreed to amend the constitution.

Republican members of the committee are expected to file a minority report, in which they will attack the excise tax bill as a thinly disguised income tax, taxing all net incomes over $5,000 per year.

The Democratic report is a comprehensive document, filling numerous 8o-pieme Court decisions to show that an excise tax is not constitutional. The report says that in order to reduce the price of sugar resulting in a revenue loss of more than $50,000,000, the committee is determined "to extend the corporation tax law to persons, firms and co-partnerships."

New York Women Open Exhibition

It Is Designed to Show What Sex Has Accomplished Along Many Lines.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Under direction of 200 of New York's most prominent women, the Women's Industrial Exhibition was opened today in the new Grand Central Palace. It is the first event of the kind ever held in this country and is designed to show just what women have accomplished in the world along many lines. There was a big attendance—mostly women.

In the Temple of Fashion twenty beautiful young women showed the latest creations in dress. Others pretty girls appeared in tableaux illustrating the advance made in women's dress during the past three years.

One department is devoted to the work that women have done in housekeeping, house wiring, farming, municipal clean-ups and many other lines.

The women directing the exhibition include Mrs. F. C. Hartman, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Martin W. Littleton, Mrs. Cleveland Dodge, Mrs. H. H. Gary, Mrs. William Loeb, Mrs. Henry Phipps and Mrs. Samuel Untermyer.

PASTOR RE-WEDS AFTER DIVORCE

A romance, which began when the Rev. Samuel C. Weatherley was the pastor of the Rockland Unitarian Church, has culminated in his marriage to Miss Norma Kelley of Rockland, just three months after his first wife had been granted a divorce from him, according to a Los Angeles despatch today.

Mrs. R. Vanderbilt Makes Dog a Guest

Waiter Politely Holds a Napkin at His Chops at End of the Repast.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 14.—Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt gave a luncheon at Bradley's at which her prize French bull terrier was the guest of honor.

The other guests were Mrs. Willie K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Lawrence Waterbury and Cyril Hatch, but the dog was the only member of the party that had the special attention of an arm chair and a cushion.

It was about 2 o'clock when the luncheon having been ordered over the phone, the Vanderbilt party walked into the restaurant, one of the most fashionable here. Mrs. Vanderbilt called the second waiter and conferred with him. Shortly afterward she returned with the dog.

Its mistress was heard to ask the animal quite solicitously what he would order, whereupon her sister-in-law answered for him, saying that no doubt he would like some strawberries and cream, and a pot of tea. This the waiter soon set before him in two deep dishes, and Pinto, as Miss Hatch referred to him, exhibited the most dainty of table manners. The berries he did not eat, but he got all the cream without dropping a bit on the tablecloth. He also carefully wiped his mouth on a napkin held by one of the French waiters.

BELKNAP WILL FIGHT BEGINS

A suit to break the will of Miss Irene Belknap, who left an estate valued at $10,000 to Rev. Edward Tillotson, a part time curate at St. Paul's Church, Boston, which began today in the Probate Court of Salem, attracted wide attention in Boston and Swampscott church circles and promised unusually interesting testimony.

The will is being contested by Irving C. Belknap, a brother of Miss Belknap, and other relatives. Mr. Tillotson is about forty-two years old. He is married. Friends call him a handsome man and a splendid speaker.

When at St. Paul's in Boston Mr. Tillotson was a favorite. Among the communicants was Miss Belknap. The clergyman was transferred to the Church of the Holy Spirit at Swampscott. Miss Belknap followed, taking up a residence in the North Shore town that she might attend the church.

Miss Belknap died last September, leaving all her property to her pastor. The relatives of Miss Belknap do not believe they were treated justly and charge that through the clergyman's charm he exercised undue influence over the woman and turned her to leave him all her property.

Mr. Tillotson denies he knowingly influenced Miss Belknap in the disposition of her estate.

As showing his appreciation of Mr. Tillotson, when he was at St. Paul's, A. J. C. Goodhue, senior warden, left him a legacy of $300.

General William A. Pew and William C. Rogers appeared as attorneys for the plaintiff and the defense was looked after by William Hunt.

Miss Belknap was about fifty years old when she died.

CLERGYMAN WHO RECEIVED $10,000 BY WOMAN'S WILL

REV. EDWARD TILLOTSON

Rev. Mr. Tillottson, who was popular as pastor of St. Paul's Church in this city, now as parish in Swampscott. He is about forty-two years old.

PLAN DEFENCE OF MRS. GAGE

WASHINGTON, March 14.—With Belva Lockwood, once candidate for President of the United States, as counsel, Mrs. Harley Calvin Gage, now in St. Elizabeth's Hospital for the Insane, charged with threatening the life of Bank President Charles J. Bell, has fixed upon a line of defence. Admitting that she made the threats, Mrs. Gage will, it is stated, allege that long and vigorous persecution on the part of Mr. Bell had temporarily deranged her mind. Several weeks of complete rest, it is alleged, will restore her mental balance and she will insist upon a trial by jury.

Mrs. Lockwood and Miss Margaret Gage spent much of the day with Mrs. Gage going over the entire story of the alleged persecutions.

"I do not know whether we will get a writ of habeas corpus tomorrow or not," said Mrs. Lockwood. "The case will be tried before a jury anyway and a writ hardly seems worth while. At the present time all there is against Mrs. Gage is a warrant in the Police Court which cannot be pushed as long as she is in the government hospital for insane."

It is probable that the hearing in lunacy will be held before Justice Barnard, the first Monday in April unless Mrs. Gage is released on bond before that time.

ITALIANS TO AID MRS. CUSUMANO

The mass meeting to protest against the execution of Mrs. Lena Cusumano, convicted of the murder of her husband, to be held in Faneuil Hall next Saturday evening at 8, has aroused the enthusiasm of many well known Italians residents in the North End.

Dr. Brindisi, who is popular with the Italians, as speaker in his native language, is likely to attract many of that nationality, who like to hear him speak upon any topic.

Dr. C. A. Dondie, who is a writer of some repute and one of the editors of an Italian weekly published in this city, will also make an address. Leon Mucci, who is also an editor as well as a lawyer, will speak.

"This mass meeting will do much good among the Italians," said Mr. Mucci. "They are very glad to have the opportunity afforded them of attending a mass meeting where this matter will be discussed by their own countrymen.

Opposed To Death Penalty.

"You see in our country the death penalty has been abolished since 1800, and we have a monument in Milano commemorating that fact. We do not believe in the death penalty. We are willing to enter our protest against it at this meeting.

"This is done not simply because Mrs. Cusumano is involved, but because it gives us Italians, who know the people well, an opportunity to tell them that there are many Americans who do not believe in the death penalty.

"I believe that this mass meeting will do much good among the Italians in this respect, and I know of many who are thankful for this meeting, as they do not speak or understand English very well.

The speakers in English will be Mrs. Florence Spooner, who has stood at the head of the anti-death penalty movement for more than a quarter of a century. She is very enthusiastic over this gathering as it will show many Italians that not a few Americans agree with them in abolishing the death penalty.

Long List of Speakers.

Representative Frank H. Pope of Leominster, one of the speakers, became prominent in his able defence of the bill to abolish the death penalty at the hearings at the State House a week or more ago.

Other speakers who will address the mass meeting are Representative Edward R. Bacley of East Boston, who spoke before the Judiciary committee, and H. H. Patten, a lawyer of this city, who has lectured on the subject in Maine and other States. He will cite facts which will show that the death penalty is no preventative against murder.

Besides the above the speakers will include Joseph Santosuosso, a Boston lawyer, Rev. William H. van Allen, D. D., rector of the Church of the Advent, and lawyers John F. Duffy and Thomas J. Grady. The latter is counsel for Mrs. Cusumano.

The doors will open at 7:30 and the meeting will begin at 8. There is no charge for admission, and every one is invited.

CHILDREN WILL SURROUND TAFT

According to plans announced today, President Taft will review the big Evacuation Day parade, standing in front of the South Boston High School, surrounded by 10,000 school children representing practically all those attending the public schools of South Boston.

The plans as stated were announced after a conference between Mayor Fitzgerald, Thomas J. Kenney, chairman of the city Council committee of Arrangements, and President Edward J. Powers of the Citizens Association.

Every child will have a flag and just as the President arrives at Fifth street and D hill the field pieces will boom forth a salute and the children will sing "America," accompanied by a consolidated band.

NAVY YARD WORKMEN TO VOTE ON HOURS

The workmen at the Charlestown Navy Yard will again vote tomorrow at the suggestion of Captain DeWitt Coffman, United States N., the commandant, regarding the the arrangement of the working hours there. For many years the men worked from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. with an hour for dinner, during the Summer months, and from 7:30 to 4:30, with an hour for dinner during the Winter months. Last Fall Captain Coffman gave the men a vote on the question of whether they desired those hours or would prefer to have a shorter noon interval at noon. The men accepted the half-hour noon plan.

M'FARLAND GIVEN 30-DAY REPRIEVE

TRENTON, N. J., March 14.—Allison MacFarland, convicted of the murder of his wife at Newark, and who was sentenced to the death chair next week, has been reprieved by Governor Wilson for thirty days. The case is now pending in the Monmouth County Court on an application for a new trial on the ground of new evidence.

Climate Failed—Medicine Cured

It has been absolutely shown that rest, fresh air and good food do help any person suffering from Tuberculosis. But, to be really honest, it must be admitted that the disease is seldom more than "arrested." Something more is needed.

Eckman's Alterative is a medicine made for the cure of Tuberculosis. It has cured this disease again and again. Often these cures have been effected where the surroundings were not ideal; where no fresh air was taken of the patient; where money was scarce; good food and good cooking unusual—yet cures resulted. Now we argue and urge that Eckman's Alterative should be used in every case of Tuberculosis in addition to good climate, good food and fresh air, which we all need.

The further evidence of cures that have been made—are interesting reading. A remarkable case follows:

"Gentlemen—Through Eckman's Alterative I have been saved from a premature grave, and, feeling that I might assist suffering humanity, I take pleasure in writing you a brief history of my sickness, which you are at liberty to use.

"On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia. My lungs became very much affected, my sputum was examined and Tuberculosis Bacilli were found. On February 2nd, 1905, I was advised to go Fort Worth, Texas. While there an abscess on my right lung broke and discharged. I grew worse, and became very much emaciated. My physician informed me that I must go to Colorado as quickly as possible. I left Texas June 1st, and arrived in Denver City June 3d, very ill. After being there two weeks, my physician informed me that my case was beyond help, my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds; the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive.

"On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Consumption as having been highly recommended. Today I weigh 158 pounds, am perfectly well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator. I have not an ache nor pain in my lungs, eat well, sleep well, and never felt better. I would be glad if every person afflicted with Tuberculosis took Eckman's cure."

(Signed Affidavit) ARTHUR WEBB.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by all Riker-Jaynes Stores, Houghton & Dutton Drug Dept. and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet of cured cases and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

THOROUGHFARE COUNTERS! FRIDAY FOR REMNANTS.

IMPORTED DOMESTIC GLOVES AT $1.00

While one store may offer better Gloves at $2.50 a pair than another, still the average store sells pretty good Gloves at that price. Time and again we have demonstrated the superiority of our higher-priced Gloves.

And now, we have set ourselves the hardest task of all—TO PROVE OUR LEADERSHIP IN GLOVES AT ONE DOLLAR. It's the supreme test.

The assortment displayed indicates the scope of our efforts. It is most comprehensive. Nothing that we could do has been left undone to add beauty and value to our DOLLAR GLOVES.

The practical desire felt by manufacturers to increase their output through the medium of our distributing capacity commanded their active co-operation. They helped at every possible point. Nothing short of such a combination of interests could have created the Glove economies we present today. No competitor who informs himself concerning our offerings can honestly challenge our claims.

The DOLLAR POWER in GLOVE BUYING. Its ultimate, final expression may be found here.

It is the biggest, most vital and most popular Glove achievement that Boston has ever known.

A NEW HAND AT ADVERTISING THE BOYS' CLOTHING STORE

Said the Boys' Clothing Man to the Advertising Man:

"There has been too much of the obvious in our Advertising. We use too many words to tell people that which they already know."

Said the Advertising Man to the Boys' Clothing Man:

"Why don't you write the kind of Advertisement you have in mind?"

B. C. M.: "Exactly what I wish to do. Here goes."

Today we will drop "cloth," "style," "workmanship" and "price." All those subjects have been exhausted. Every dealer claims to have the best and to sell the cheapest. Of course, all but ONE are either honestly mistaken or the other thing.

Our Advertising is intended to touch a higher level. Perhaps the reason for this is found in the fact that our BOYS' CLOTHING has a distinctive and individual eminence.

This is due to the personal equation.

Whether running a BOYS' CLOTHING STORE or a BATTLESHIP—the personal quality is what counts most.

We don't brag about mere bigness. The STORE is comparatively limited in extent—but the merchandise and methods are IMMENSE.

They are the points we wish to accent.

To do this is simply putting the emphasis on the right things.

With us, BOYS' CLOTHING is not a pendant of Men's Clothing. We don't handle the latter. Therefore all our CLOTHING thought and energy are absorbed by boys from 3½ to 18 years of age. Hence our success in this line of endeavor may be traced to the winning power of organized concentration.

Our BOYS' CLOTHING meets the approval of all who examine it, because EVERY Suit we show has character. Skimped nowhere. Looked after with care everywhere. Never degraded to save a dime. That's the truest economy. Goods that we cheerfully cover with the broadest guarantee. You and your boys must be satisfied—or we won't keep your money. That's our policy. It is working out beautifully.

Now, you may not wish to buy BOYS' CLOTHING today, or tomorrow. But pin these words to your memory—keep them in mind—and when your buying time comes—they will guide you here. If they fail to do this, we will have missed our Advertising aim.

BEDS AND BEDDING—SPECIALS

MUTINEERS KILL 1000 IN CANTON

CANTON, March 14.—More than 1,000 bodies of victims of the reign of horror strew the streets here today.

Four more gunboats have left Hong Kong for Canton. It is reported mutineer artillery men bombarded the British warship Kinshs in the harbor, damaging her. The Namkoi jail has been blown up by dynamite, following the release of all the prisoners. The famous five-story pagoda has been burned.

Arson, murder and looting continue unabated. An army of 28,000 brigands and mutineers is in control of the city.

In Pekin the first great crisis of the new Chinese republic is at hand. President Yuan Shi Kai today informed the foreign legations that unless his envoys are successful in effecting a peace agreement with General Shang Yun, who is marching on the capital at the head of an army of 40,000 men from Kan Su province, he will defend the city.

With turbulence reigning within, provisions and ammunition running low and the loyalty of the bulk of defending troops in doubt, Pekin probably would be easy prey for the invaders.

There was extraordinary activity today among the Chinese soldiers who have remained loyal to Yuan in Pekin. Cannon were raised to the top of the thirty-foot wall around the Chinese or Southern city, and stationed sixty yards apart on the broad surface. The walls are twenty-five feet thick.

Long range guns have been massed about each of the sixteen gates. Couriers reported the advance guard of Shang Yun's army was 200 miles southwest of the capital advancing steadily, burning, looting and killing.

RAILROADS UNFAIR, CHARGE OF MILLERS

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Charging that the tariff and transit privileges were conducive of flagrant and serious abuses over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Attorney William D. Kerr of Chicago, today presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission arguments on the complaint brought by the Hodgett Milling Company of Janesville, Wisconsin, against the railroads.

Little Olga Eills Happy with Mother 'Cause Just; Have No Fear of Result'

OLGA EILLS, IN STRIFE OVER WHOM PARENTS ARE REVEALING LIFE SECRETS.

This picture of the little principal in the Springfield case, made by a Boston American photographer, shows her as she really looks.

Mrs. Eills Insists Clergyman's Odd Views Make Him Unfit to Guard Girl.

The happiest woman in Revere today was Mrs. Harriet Cox Eills, the wife of the Rev. John Eills, pastor of the First Unitarian Church, Chicopee. And the reason that Mrs. Eills was in such a joyous mood was because she had in her care her little daughter Olga, five years old, from whom she had been separated for a long time and over the possession of whom the husband and wife are at legal war before the Probate Court in Springfield.

Mrs. Eills was an inmate of an asylum for the insane at Northampton. She was liberated through Governor Foss. She has her baby girl with her pending a continuation of the case on March 25.

"I was awfully glad to get my baby girl back again," said Mrs. Eills today. "She is a dear little girl and I have missed her very much.

"There is no question but that I am the proper person to care for my child, was compelled to take the witness stand in court and fight for her and I am ready to continue the fight.

"Mrs. Eills was indignant when questioned regarding her confinement for seventeen days in the Northampton Insane Hospital, from which she was released after an appeal to Governor Foss.

"It was evidently believed," she said, "that the shock of being shut up in the hospital would injure my reason, so that when I came out, if I ever did, people would believe that my statements regarding his past conduct were those of a demented person.

"The horrible injustice of it all struck me in a terrible way when I was first taken there and it gave me a creepy feeling to see the people with whom I was compelled to eat and sleep doing the most childish and foolish things. I want to say, though, that I was treated well while there, and if all the insane hospitals in the State and country are as well conducted and run on the same principle as that one the Commonwealth has nothing to be ashamed of.

"I am glad to be home again with my little Olga. Our cause is a just one and we have no fear of the result.

"My husband is not the right kind of a man to care for the child. I called him a hypocrite because he is one and holding the peculiar views that he does I do not believe that he is the proper person to have the little one in his custody.

"The little girl is happy, too, and has been having the very best kind of a time since she has been with me."

REBELS RUSHING TO MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, March 14.—The rebels today gathering at Santa Rosalia, following the capture of that town by a force of about 150 men. The federals who defended the place have withdrawn toward the City of Mexico.

The rebels were commanded by Generals Salazar and Campa. Salazar's main command came up after the fighting and a detachment of 500 followed the retreating federals. The rebel forces are advancing on Mexico City with all possible speed today. It is reported here that their progress has been more rapid and that they will be within striking distance of the capital within the next three or four days.

In a cable message received by Ernesto Madero, Minister of Finance, Speyer Bros. of New York say:

"We much regret to hear that rumors are current to the effect that we refused to make a loan to your government. As you are aware, these rumors are absolutely untrue. On the contrary, we wish to repeat to you that we are prepared to make any loan if you desire it and to render your government any other service in our power."

EX-GOVERNOR HILL GETTING BETTER

A slight improvement is reported in the condition of former Governor John F. Hill of Maine, chairman of the National Republican Committee, who is seriously ill at the Hotel Touraine with pneumonia. Mrs. Hill is at her husband's bedside.

Runaway Kid Spring Fever Epidemic Is On

Young Bostonians' Fancies Turn Lightly to Thoughts of "Never Homes."

In the Spring the young kid's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of running away from home. Four runaways, picked up by the Court square station police, were sent to their homes today by Captain Sullivan, after being duly scowled at and lectured upon the sin of roaming away from good homes. Two of the lads were found in the subway, sleeping on barrels of refuse, and the other two in a theatre. One of the subway kids ran away only last Friday night. The police say that more than one experience and sometimes a punishment or two are necessary to cure a boy of the "wanderlust."

EVERETT DEALER CHARGED WITH ARSON

Anthony M. Freitas, proprietor of the Everett Furniture Company, Nos. 454-456 Broadway, Everett, was arraigned today in the Malden Police Court, charged with setting fire to his store last night. He waived examination and was held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury. A policeman smelled smoke in passing the Freitas store and notified Chief Swan of the fire department. The chief claimed he found the cellar filled with smoke, the furnace choked with wood and a lighted candle on a pile of furniture and excelsior.

BURNS ATTACK ON GOMPERS

WORCESTER, March 14.—Before the Worcester Merchants' Association William J. Burns the detective attacked Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. He said:

"Gompers ought to be eliminated from organized labor."

'GOV. WILSON A FEDERALIST; NOT A DEMOCRAT,' SAYS W. R. HEARST

"HE IS NOT EVEN A REPUBLICAN—A REPUBLICAN BELIEVES IN POPULAR GOVERNMENT."

WASHINGTON, March 14—The following statement by William Randolph Hearst is published in the Washington Post this morning:

Two ex-presidential candidates, Mr. Gaynor, minority Mayor of New York, and Professor Wilson, occasional Governor of New Jersey, have seen fit to accuse me of responsibility for their political demise.

I am unworthy of such distinction and to the posthumous correspondence of these gentlemen, I would like to add the following plain statement of fact.

I am NOT a candidate for the presidency, as these gentlemen seem to fear.

I AM, however, committed to the Democratic cause, and I am anxious to see the Democratic party nominate for the Presidency a genuine Democrat and a man who can be elected.

Of course, in this connection no one seriously considers Mayor Gaynor for a moment.

Professor Wilson, on the other hand, has some claim to consideration, but he must, and should properly be considered from the viewpoint of whether or not he is a genuine Democrat, and whether or not there is reasonable chance of his election.

What is a genuine Democrat?

He is a man who loves and trusts the people, follows reverently in the footsteps of the great leaders of the people and continually and consistently advocates the basic principles of popular government.

After reading Professor Wilson's writings, listening to his speeches and endeavoring to form an unprejudiced estimate of the man and his manner of thought, I am compelled to conclude that the distinguishing characteristics of Professor Wilson are that he habitually distrusts the people, has continually depreciated such great popular leaders as Washington, Jefferson and Jackson and his scant nine-tenths of his life in denouncing the program and propaganda of popular government that he now pretends to support.

In my honest judgment, those traits (which is the only thing that can guide my action), Mr. Wilson is not a Democrat.

He is not even a Republican. He is a Federalist.

A Democrat, I say, is a man who sincerely believes in the essential justice and wisdom of popular government.

A Republican is a man who believes in popular government except where it interferes with his special privileges.

But a Federalist is a man who distrusts the people and actually desires to limit and restrict the people's power in government.

At present no Federalist party exists in the United States, but Federalists exist.

These Federalists may call themselves Democrats or may call themselves Republicans, but in sentiment and sympathy they are Federalists. They think as Federalists, and when not appealing to the people for political support they act and speak and write as Federalists.

Alexander Hamilton was the leader of the Federalist movement, the founder of the Federalist idea, and an exaggerated and exalted estimate of Hamilton is the natural and inevitable characteristic of the Federalist disciple.

Professor Wilson, in his History of the American People, says of Hamilton:

"Hamilton was above all, a statesman. He believed in centralized government; that the State government as independent bodies might be extinguished or at any rate subordinated; that the new executive of the nation might hold for life and at least one of the national legislatures for a like term, or at least during good behavior."

Then later Professor Wilson writes:

"What shall we do to return safely to Hamilton?

"We think of Hamilton rather than Washington when we look back to the policy of the first administration."

Professor Wilson first defines Hamilton's Federalistic ideas, then expresses his own Federalistic admiration of Hamilton and these policies.

This was all written when Professor Wilson was not a candidate for the presidency and when he was freely and honestly expressing his actual Federalistic opinions.

It was under similar conditions conducive to genuine expression of actual sentiment that Professor Wilson reflected upon Washington and said:

"It is for any one who likes the sinister suggestion to say that Washington's order for the occupancy of the Western country was that of the land speculator, not that of the statesman."

It was under similar conditions that Professor Wilson wrote of Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic party:

"Mr. Jefferson was an aristocrat who deliberately practised the arts of the politician, and cultivated the illusion the sort of insincerity which subtle natures yield to without loss of essential integrity."

And again "Washington found Jefferson a guide who needed watching."

It was under similar conditions that Professor Wilson wrote of Andrew Jackson:

"The country is older now than it was when Andrew Jackson delighted in his power, and few can believe that it would again approve or applaud childish arrogance and ignorant arbitrariness like his."

It was under similar unconstrained conditions, before his natural line of thought was affected by his presidential ambition, that Professor Wilson referred to our immigrants from the South of Europe as men of the lowest classes and men of the meaner sort, men out of the ranks where there was neither skill nor energy, nor any initiative of quick intelligence.

"There came in numbers which increased from year to year, as if the countries of the south of Europe were disburdening themselves of the more sordid and hapless elements of their population.

"The Chinese were more to be desired as workingmen if not as citizens than most of the coarse crew that came crowding in every year at the Eastern ports.

"The unlikely fellows who came in at our Eastern ports were tolerated because they usurped no place but the very lowest in the scale of labor."

Now, just and gentle reader, whether you approve of Professor Wilson's admiration for Hamilton and Hamilton's federalistic policies, or whether you do not; whether you approve of Professor Wilson's aspersions upon Washington and Jackson and other popular leaders, or whether you do not; whether you approve of Professor Wilson's air of sniffy superiority and his apparent contempt for the plainer and poorer people, and for their ideals and ideals, or whether you do not; whether you approve of Professor Wilson's attitude on all of these matters or not; you must admit that it is not a Democrat's attitude; that these are not utterances of a genuine Democrat.

Let us do full justice to Professor Wilson, however. Let us give him the benefit of every doubt.

Perhaps Professor Wilson wrote and thought and spoke and taught as a Federalist for the fifty years before he became a candidate for the Presidency and then actually and suddenly was transformed into a genuine Democrat six weeks after he became a candidate for the Presidency.

Perhaps so; but can I honestly believe that he was so speedily transformed? Can you believe it?

Suppose a man had spoken disparagingly of you for fifty years and then had decided to try to borrow some money from you, and had thereupon spoken pleasantly of you?

Could you believe that he was really your friend, or would you shrewdly suspect that he was only trying to flatter you into doing him a favor?

Would you think that you were quite safe in entrusting important matters directly affecting your interests to his hands?

And, if I were your personal adviser, as a conscientious publisher is a trusted adviser of the public, would I be doing my duty to you if I advised you to entrust too much to this changeable man until I felt sure that he had become really your friend and was not merely pretending to be?

I have a high conception of my journalistic duties and responsibilities, and I adhere to that conception with devotion and without deviation.

If I were convinced that Professor Wilson were a genuine Democrat, capable of being elected to the Presidency, and of conducting the great office in the interests of the people, I would unreservedly advise the people to support him.

But, being unconvinced of this I will not advise the people to support him, let all the dogs from Spot to Cerebus howl as they will.

There are enthusiastic supporters of Professor Wilson that believe him to be a second Saul of Tarsus, who has seen a great light and been actually converted. I do not believe it.

There are many definite differences between Professor Wilson and Saint Paul.

The great light that St. Paul saw was not a light of personal preferment, was not a light of public office, was not a light of material advantage.

St. Paul abandoned material consideration to follow his convictions, he did not merely change his convictions to secure honor and position.

He sacrificed himself to benefit the people, he did not merely seek to use the people to advance himself. He left his home and his people and went out into the world to do good, and did not begin by asking a pension from Herod.

Neither did he draw a salary from the government while neglecting the duties of office and devoting his time to his personal advancement.

The constant intrusion of certain pieces of silver into the career of our modern convert is more suggestive of a Judas than of a Saint Paul.

Finally, not only Saint Paul's acts, but Saint Paul's words rang true.

Saint Paul spoke clearly and fearlessly whatever he thought, and every follower was able to understand exactly what he meant.

But who can know or state with any definiteness what Professor Wilson actually thinks of the leading questions of the day?

At the Jackson day harmony dinner in Washington in the midst of the utter silence Professor Wilson insists upon before he begins his address, a sturdy Western Democrat at one of the tables said so all could hear:

"Now, professor, tell us what you think TONIGHT."

It was not too much for a Democrat to ask of a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, but Professor Wilson did not respond, either directly or in his speech.

Professor Wilson was not asked to state what he had thought of Jackson and Jefferson in times past. He was not asked to report his criticism of recent Democratic platforms and recent Democratic candidates.

He was not asked to explain his altered attitude on many progressive policies.

He was only asked to state definitely what he thought that night.

He did not explain definitely and he never does explain definitely.

He asks all Democrats to forget his past attitude, but is not willing to make them understand his present one.

Professor Wilson has made more speeches than all the other candidates for the presidency in all the other parties combined and still he has not yet been able definitely to state what he really believes.

To those who ask for bread Professor Wilson distributes the polished pebbles of his oratory. They may be brilliant, they may be beautiful, but they are not bread, they are but stones.

Professor Wilson, who formerly ridiculed and reviled the initiative, referendum, the recall and direct nominations and edugated his students to oppose these popular measures now says that he believes in the initiative in a way, and in direct nominations under certain conditions. He thinks that the tariff is an issue, but he has been unable clearly to formulate his tariff program.

He concedes that the trust question is the leading one, but he has been unwilling clearly to explain how he purposes to deal with the trust question. Professor Wilson modifies every statement, qualifies every utterance, and stands nicely balanced on every issue, ready to retreat or advance as occasion requires.

To my mind he is a perfect Jackrabbit of politics, perched upon his little hillock of expediency, with ears erect and nostrils distended, keenly alert to every scent or sound and ready to run and double in any direction on the slightest intimation of danger.

If Professor Wilson's inconsistencies and contradictions, his undemocratic and un-American utterances, should not become sufficiently well-known before the convention to prevent his nomination, they will certainly become well enough known during the campaign to prevent his election.

And while defeat at the polls is not what the Democrat desires that defeat would certainly be better for the party in the long run than the election of a man who is not in heart and action a Democrat.

The whole trouble with Professor Wilson is that he is not a Democrat and does not know how to be a Democrat. His Democratic posse is assumed and, therefore, awkward and unnatural.

He is a fish out of water. In the pursuit of his ambitions he has left that unfortunate element in which he knew how to swim and has come out upon the Democratic land upon which he does not know how to walk. As a candidate for President he would be a pitiful disappointment.

As an actual President he would be a positive danger to his party and to the country. A Democratic

"A DEMOCRAT BELIEVES IN THE ESSENTIALS OF JUSTICE AND WISDOM OF POPULAR GOVERNMENT."

President who is not a Democrat would be a failure and the failure of an administration for which the Democratic party could be held responsible would mean the expulsion of Democracy from the power for another score of years.

These are my reasons for not supporting Professor Wilson. They may or may not be sound. At least they are not selfish.

I have a fairly accurate faculty for detecting frauds, as Mayor Schmitz and Mayor Gaynor, as Senator Bailey and Senator Foraker, as District Attorney Jerome and Governor Dix can testify.

I unhesitatingly classify Professor Wilson in the same category as the above worthies, and confidently wait for time and events to prove the accuracy of my judgment.

Physicians Praise Consumption Remedy

During the last year there has been introduced into the United States a remedy for Consumption, which comes to us with a most remarkable list of endorsements from the Leading Specialists of Europe.

It has been used for several years on the other side, and cases after case has yielded to it.

This preparation is called Sirolin, and judging from the condition of some of the patients whom it has saved, no consumptive need fear that he is too far gone to be benefited by it.

Sirolin builds up the body by increasing the appetite and assisting the digestion. It checks the racking cough and loosens the gathering of mucus on the lungs in a remarkable way.

If you, or any of your friends, are suffering from any throat or lung ailment, do not fail to send for full information about Sirolin to the Sirolin Company, 228 Wall Boulevard, New York City.

All leading druggists are recommending and distributing Sirolin with considerable success.

Danderine

Stops Falling Hair and Destroys Dandruff

Makes the Hair Grow Long, Heavy and Luxuriant and We Can Quickly Prove It

If You Wish to Double the Beauty of Your Hair at Once, Just Get a 25 Cent Bottle and Try This

Surely try a Danderine Hair Cleanse if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair with little trouble and at a cost not worth mentioning. Just moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few moments you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of Dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. It's exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a marking brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

A Word in Regard to College Advertising

The growing popularity of College Advertising with the more alert and far-sighted producer is shown forcibly by the fact that in the nine months comprising the last college year, 1611 full pages of advertising, representing approximately an outlay of $45,000, have been carried by the five undergraduate publications of Harvard. Such a considerable outlay for reaching from five to ten thousand undergraduates and graduates points to just one thing—the high buying power—present and future—of the class of consumers reached by the college publication. That a man forms in college the preferences which are to stick to him through life is quite true, and it is the realization of the opportunity here present for the sincere producer with an honest ware that accounts for the rapid increase within the last few years of college advertising. Given an article of real worth, capable of appealing to persons of discriminating tastes, and a lifetime's patronage is the reward of the producer for his initial outlay in the college publication.

Mr. Producer, we Believe YOU have something to say to the College Man.

Have our representative call and explain why we should have your contract.

Trace "Other Woman" in Grace Case

Declare Shooting Victim Was Infatuated With Rich Atlanta Woman.

PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—Detectives from Atlanta, here investigating Mrs. Eugene Grace, accused of shooting her husband at Atlanta, Ga., have unearthed details supporting the assertions of Mrs. Grace that "there is another woman in the case." They have ascertained that prior to his meeting with Mrs. Ople, who later became his wife, Grace apparently was infatuated with a woman from Atlanta, who made frequent trips to this city.

The detectives refuse to reveal the name of this Atlanta woman, but describe her as a petite blonde, apparently wealthy, who is said to have visited Grace at his office and at his home.

Mrs. Grace, who is held for shooting.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 14.—Eugene Grace, who claims he was shot by his wife, Mrs. Daisy Ogle Grace, formerly of Philadelphia, after being drugged, is in a critical condition, and the surgeons are quoted as saying that they do not see how he can live.

Grace's condition changed for the worse late yesterday afternoon and he failed so rapidly his mother was summoned. Last night it was thought Grace would recover. The surgeons now say the bullet is against his spine and they intend to operate in a last effort to save his life.

"My Feet Were Just Aching For TIZ"

Let Your Poor, Tired, Chafed Tender Feet "Spread Out" Gloriously in a Bath of TIZ!

"O, O, glory, what a feelin'! Wonderful what TIZ will do for your feet!"

Just take your shoes off, and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, achy, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a TIZ bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy. They'll look up at you and almost talk, and then they'll take another dive in that TIZ bath! Yes, TIZ is life to feet!

"Just couldn't wait to take my hat off!"

The man or woman who says there's anything like, or as good as, TIZ never had a foot in a TIZ bath.

When your feet ache, get tired, swollen, tender or sore, just try TIZ. Your feet will just feel nice, also your corns, bunions and callouses will disappear. You'll be able to wear smaller shoes, too; your feet will keep cozy; they'll never be frost-bitten, never chilblained.

TIZ operates under a new principle, drawing out all the poisonous exudations that make feet sore, corny and tired. There's nothing else like TIZ; so refuse any imitation.

STEPSISTER AND PIERCE ELOPE

Social and theatrical circles in Boston were busy today discussing the latest exploit of young Roy Pierce, son of Henry Clay Pierce, the oil king, whose marriage to Bessie Faulkner Chapman Pierce, the Boston beauty, was recently annulled. For, with freedom from his actress wife still a novelty, following the annulment proceedings brought by his father, Jonas Pierce has again married.

Dispatches from Palm Beach today told of the elopement of Roy Pierce and his stepsister, Miss Virginia Burrough.

Mrs. Chapman, whose marriage to Roy Pierce was recently annulled on ground of mental incapacity, is recuperating at Aiken, N. C., where she is staying at the Magnolia Inn.

Upon receiving a wife from a friend at Palm Beach notifying her of the marriage, Mrs. Chapman sent back the following wire:

Thanks for informing me of marriage. Hope Roy will have every happiness in life for he deserves it and am glad the world will know he is not the sort his father and brother portrayed him.

BETTY CHAPMAN.

The elder Pierce, in discussing the elopement with a close friend, exclaimed: "Him did it. The boy has been pleading with I first heard of their reported engagement two months ago, before the courts had established with the first marriage. I wrote them both about it and they denied it. I honestly did not believe they were engaged."

Pierce is about twenty-four years old and his bride is a couple of years his senior. The groom, since going to Palm Beach a month ago, has had his former marriage with Mrs. Chapman declared void. His runaway match so upset his father, who had brought about the annulment of the former union, it was said, of paying Mrs. Chapman $100,000, that he locked himself in his apartments and refused to see family friends who came to make inquiries.

Watchman Who Shot Towerman Is Freed

O'Neil, Who Accidentally Killed New Haven Employe, Is Released by Judge Fallon.

William O'Neil, the railroad watchman who accidentally shot George H. Bishop, a New Haven railroad towerman, so that Bishop died later, was discharged in the South Boston Court today. Judge Fallon declined to grant a warrant for manslaughter.

O'Neil had arrested Forrest H. Chick for larceny of railroad iron. Guarding Chick with his revolver O'Neil took him to the railroad tower in the South Boston yards. The revolver was discharged, wounding Bishop fatally.

Patrolman McGillivray made a request for a manslaughter warrant, then explained the situation to Judge Fallon.

Chick, the man arrested for larceny, pleaded guilty and was sent to the House of Correction for one month.

BROKER HILL AGAIN UNDER THE X-RAY

Spencer R. Hill, the broker who was shot Monday by Herman-Lewinski at his office at No. 50 Congress street, was reported at the City Hospital today to have a more normal pulse and temperature. The surgeon, who has a rugged physique, has been cautious since brought here to have the bullet probe for the ninth time, but they have refrained, fearing to aggravate the wound. They inserted the probe Monday with an X-ray. They say it deflected and grazed the right lung. They are to use the X-ray again today to determine whether it will be safe to operate. Mr. Hill is not on the dangerous list.

PEFFER, POPULIST, DYING.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 14.—Former Senator William A. Peffer, the once famous Kansas Populist, eighty-three years old, is believed to be near death. His right leg has been amputated above the knee because of a gangrenous affection.

50 DETAINED ON LINER CANOPIC

Fifty Italians and Portuguese, returning to Lawrence in the second cabin of the White Star liner Canopic, were detained today by immigration inspectors for further examination as to their ability to take care of themselves while in the mill city.

Immigration inspectors examined the 314 second cabin passengers while the Canopic was steaming up to her dock from quarantine and these fifty were ordered detained.

When the examination of 1,245 steerage passengers was begun at the dock the inspectors were prepared to be very searching with immigrants bound for Lawrence. This is being done under orders from Washington.

The purposes of the examination may be gauged from the fact that the majority of the second-cabin passengers detained are not immigrants in the strict sense. They have been in this country before, have lived in Lawrence and accumulated enough to return home for Winter vacations. They are known technically as "non-immigrant aliens," not having definite intents of the country.

All who cannot show that they are well established in Lawrence and not likely to become a charge upon the country will be deported. Eleven were sent back this way from the last ship.

The second cabin and steerage passengers were also subjected to close examination by the port physician, Dr. F. X. Crawford, and his assistants on account of cholera and smallpox reports from Sicily. No cases or indications were found on the Canopic, which arrived at the dock at 9:30.

Today marked the beginning of the Spring rush of immigration to Boston, the Canopic bringing in a total of 1,559 passengers, of which 314 were second cabin and 1,245 steerage. This is the largest passenger list from the Azores and Mediterranean ports since last Summer.

Great Bowling Battle Opens

Alley Experts Meet in First Rounds

American Prizes for Winners

Promptly at 10 o'clock this morning the Boston AMERICAN Bowling Championship Contest started at the New Boston alleys. No. 167 Washington street. Boston with the squad of forty-two crack candlepin shooters in the elimination rounds bowling the way for the six other squads coming on later.

Elected to start the big ball rolling were the following: Harvey Hodge of Chelsea, said the only gathering from the Roxbury Crossing alleys, Collins, Connelly, Dame, Goggin, Hockey, Kelly, Jack, Marsh, Mc-Nulty, Stoner and O'Brien.

The crew Anderson, Benaglia, Fahrweather, Gleeter, Hutchins, Langone, Mills and Present of Boston.

Somerville had on the the Caraglano and Colieri. Clarke and Keene represented Dorchester. Pratt, McCabe and Pine were in the 1st Medley.

Then there was Burns of Waltham, Combs of Allston, Eckerman of Everett, Nickerson of Medford, and Purdy of Malden Flats.

The 11:30 o'clock squad was the next to take the floor of honor, being headed by O'Brien, Sloss, Sharp, Stroose, Thomas, Welsh and Wilson from Boston.

Boston sent to the front Bennett, Asquith, Fetters, Sniquist, Hall, Hennessey and Wayne.

Lowell and Rea were then in order. Mehleys, Green of Rock Island, Curtis, Foster, Hodge, McPhee and Wischusen. Burke and Hastings came up from Revere.

Terry Griffin was ready to the line from Dorchester. Veterans of Roslindale, Rathbun of Whitin, Seiling of Somerville, Bixby of Charlestown, and Kleiss of Chelsea completed the list.

The three hours devoted to bowling were crowded with the rooters, while soon in the throng were prominent persons from all over New England identified with the sport.

The officials in charge, Fred Williams, Harry Ross, Charley Dolan, president of the City League, the man who framed the rules governing the candlepin game; Daniel F. Fitz, one of the leading lights of the Newtowne Club; and C. B. Briggs, prominent in the tournaments of the National Duck and Candlepin Congress, had things swimming along at full speed, keeping the bowlers right on schedule time from the tap of the gong.

The alleys were in prime shape, due to the efforts of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, while the pins and balls supplied by the same company were correct to a dot.

The bowling committee elected to use in stamping the cards of the contestants the automatic time stamp, which proved great aid in showing that cards bowled had appeared in proper time for the squad in the squad to which he had been allotted.

Following is the number of pins each alley he rolls on, and his hour of bowling:

B. A. A. Gold Medal for Sam Lawrence

Sam Lawrence, the wonderful high jumper of the B. A. A., is today given a beautiful 14-karat solid gold medal for creating a new world's indoor record for the high jump at the B. A. A. games in Mechanics building February 10 last, when he cleared the bar at 6 feet 4½ inches.

The medal, which bears the emblem of the club, is a Dieges & Clust design and is the finest record medal that the club has ever given to any of its athletes.

Lawrence's performance was such a wonderful one that the athletic committee of the club decided that he was entitled to a medal worthy of his feat.

WASHINGTON LOSES.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., March 14.—The Washington American League baseball team, in training quarters here, was defeated 5 to 3, by the University of Virginia. It was Washington's first day in the open.

The Cleveland A. C. seven and B. A. A. hockey players clash at the Arena tonight and a hard fought game is looked for. The visitors arrived today from Syracuse, where they were defeated by a 3 to 1 score, and are out to square matters here.

The Clevelanders will also play at the Arena tomorrow night in a game against the Intercollegiate. In the latter part of January the Intercollegiate journeyed to Cleveland for two games with the locals and meets tomorrow night, but lost both of them.

The local boys declared that they were given very lop opportunities to play their best game in Cleveland because of the poor work of the officials and interference on the part of the management of the Cleveland Club.

HOGAN GETS IN BAD.

NEW YORK, March 14.—"One Round" Hogan, the California lightweight, may be in for a reprimand at the hands of the State Boxing Commission as a result of his tactics last night in his bout with Louis Cross at the Madison A. C. Hogan persisted in hitting in the clinches so the bout was stopped at the end of the first round.

LOCAL PLAYERS SIGN.

Officials of the new Greater Boston Baseball League today received four more signed contracts from young players. They are from Herbert S. Ferguson, No. 50 Verndale street, Brookline; Martin J. Regan, No. 21 East Canton street, city; Patrick F. Martin, No. 23 Springfield street, Lawrence, and Daniel H. Daniels, No. 10 Winthrop street, Cambridge.

GOTCH LOSES MATCH.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 14.—Frank Gotch, world's champion wrestler, lost a handicap wrestling match here to Henry Ordemann of Minneapolis. Gotch failed to throw Ordemann in twenty minutes, as agreed.

Mechanic-English Meet is Put Over

The dual meet between English High and Mechanic Arts High, which was to have taken place at the English High drill hall today has been indefinitely postponed, and in all probability will not be run off during the present indoor season.

According to first arrangements, the dash, hurdles, shotput and high jump were to be contested this afternoon, while the 600-yard, 600-yard, 1,000-yard and the mile runs were to be held tomorrow on the outdoor track at the Columbia avenue playground. Captain Campbell of English High was not satisfied with this arrangement, and asked Captain Sweeney of Mechanic Arts if it would not be possible to alter them.

Captain Sweeney, however, stating that no new arrangements had already been made, it would not be fair to either side to change.

WELLS IS AFTER WOLGAST TITLE

By JACK CONWAY.

Now that Matt Wells, the English lightweight champion, has started for this country, the American 133-pounders will have to perform in rare form if they are to retain their ring laurels. Wells is considered one of the greatest lightweights in the world.

The Englishman made a very creditable showing when he was last in this country. He won a decision over Pal Moore at the Armory A. A., while he bested Abe Attell, Knockout Brown and Leach Cross in no-decision contests in New York.

Wells is anxious to get a match with Ad Wolgast. The Michigan "Wildcat" will undoubtedly give Wells a date if he will make the lightweight limit of 133 pounds. There are many followers of the squared circle who do not believe that the English crack can make this weight and still be strong.

Wolgast is now virtually matched to meet Joe Rivers on the Coast on the Fourth of July. If this match should be seen that Ad will be unable to give Wells a date before Labor Day unless they meet in a no-decision contest in New York.

Another Australian Champion Coming.

Hughie Mehegan, the lightweight champion of Australia, who sails for this country early in the Summer, is also out with a challenge to meet Wolgast. The Australian title holder has yet to show that he is in the same class with Tom Jones, wonderful battler, the recently had his troubles in defeating Frank Diedrie of San Francisco. Pialo is only a fair second rater.

Australia has not produced many good fighters during the past few years. Bill Lemon Squires was about the worst of the Australian mitt artists who have visited these shores of late years.

Squires came to this country hailed as a world beater, but turned out to be a joke. Bill Lang was almost as bad as Squires. The American sporting public will have to be shown before they will believe that Mehegan is a suitable opponent for Wolgast.

Riverside Boat Club Amateur Bouts Tonight

About every New England amateur of note will compete in the big welterweight tournament of the Riverside Boat Club, which takes place at Cypress Hall, Cambridge, tonight. The New England amateur boxing championships take place in a few weeks and the Putnam pure suit dispensers are out to get all the experience possible. The Cambridge club has staged some rattling good amateur shows this Winter. Tonight's bouts will be held in the following classes: 105, 115 1-2-5 and 145 pounds.

Kid Block's Hat Is in the Ring

Not to be outdone by Teddy R., Kid Block has thrown his hat into the ring. Arthur Petky, the Kid's cherished white chops, is clashes with Al Benedict at North Adams tonight. Block says he has his young giant will win. If Petky defeats Benedict, he may be signed up to meet Andy Morris of East Boston.

Bat Nelson Again As Fighting Card

The winner of the Brooks-Alger bout, which takes place before the Lynn Club of Manchester, N. H., next week, has been matched for a date with Battling Nelson. Alger has already met the Hegewisch Kid once and was rewarded with having the best of the milling. Benny Sharp, the New Bedford promoter, was in this city Yesterday and wanted to get Brooks to meet Matty Baldwin at his club on March 25, but Fighting Joe Levy was inclined to accept his offer on account of his bout with Alger. Levy is training at George Byer's gymnasium.

Scotch Champion is After McFarland Bout

Johnny Connolly, the Scotch lightweight champion, who has defeated Mc Parland of Chicago at New Bedford on April 2, 150 the Mack's mitter has already signed articles and Benny Sharp is now after the stock yard whirlwind. Connolly is a very classy mixer and is confident that he would be able to give McFarland a stiff argument.

Daysey Mayme and Her Folks

—CONCERNING CORSETS—

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

"DAYSEY MAYME APPLETON dressed with her corset on and took a survey of herself in the glass. Then she unlaced it a bit and dressed without it, looking again in the glass.

"I took the mid as if I were a woman I'd forgotten to pity," she said. "However if I had a daughter I'd be decided that the pros and cons of the matter for the betterment of humanity in the persons of the House and Hireside depend upon the abolition of the corset. I will not be one to let my unstarched locks stand in the way.

"The corset," she said, throwing the fervor into her voice one always hears in the tones of a Woman who has a Mission, "has always been a whalebone of contention between the sexes. When women suggest that smoking, or drinking, or gambling, or any of the pastimes of the men, are wicked and dangerous, they retaliate by pointing to the corset.

"Every time a woman is heir to is laid on the corset. If a man beats his wife to death the coroner's jury brings in a verdict that her death was due to tight lacing. If she sneezes, if she coughs, if her corns hurt. Why, the man will ask, does she persist in wearing a corset?"

They speak with indignation about the woman with the form of an hour-glass, and, though they don't know the locations of their own lungs and livers, they talk wisely about how this squeezing has misplaced A, crowded B out of shape, destroyed C, and made E look as if it had gone through a coffee mill, giving words for loose letters that are long enough to wear for a watch chain.

"Yet the woman with a shape like an hour glass passed over the hills of Time [illegible] and [illegible] when [illegible] days were [illegible] and right in a [illegible] weeks old.

"The opposition of the man that makes woman wear corsets, the fought so long in pure stubbornness that the fight became one for principle—her rights were involved, and the corset flourished and grew in vigor with every woman fighting for it, till it has developed from the bust of a wide waistband of a few years ago to a garment of many hooks and eyes and steels and laces reaching from the groin to the knees.

"The price has grown with it. Indeed the price has grown faster than the corset, and man's opposition caused the growth.

"The average corset after it has been worn three weeks is as when hanging over a chair at night as if it would cost at least a thousand dollars to get a new one. At the end of six weeks it begins to look as if all corset factories had failed, or that the wearer had made a vow not to buy a new one till a Democrat was elected President. It is not their beauty which makes us hold on to them.

"I do not know what will become of the women of feather-bed architecture when the corset is abolished. Their husbands may have decried the corset loud and loud, but they will hunt up some woman this as a rail with a natural straight-front for promenade purposes. No man admires a woman who has lost her waist.

"So far as I am personally concerned," she said in conclusion, "I will sacrifice the two supreme joys in woman's life when I give up my corset—the joy of defying the man and the happy, fleeting sigh of relief in taking it off at night."

Not So Sure

THE secretary of a social club was presented with a cat and loving cup.

His servant surveyed the object the next morning and thus ruminated:

"Look at them there handles on th' pitcher," said Bridget. "They know if Oi break one of thim handles they'll have two left, and if Oi break two they'll have one left, and if they'll always have one. They will, will they? I'm not sure about that."

Overfatness Condemned.

Fat, or even fatish, women readers who want to be in the mode this year must understand that the demand is for fine, not curves, and govern themselves accordingly.

That means OFF with the fat. It has become a duty. Many are trying exercise or dieting but it is certain they will find these methods too slow, and undesirable. The cheapest and safest way to get in form for the Directoire mode is by means of Marmola Prescription Tablets. Any druggist (or the Marmola Co. 180 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.) will give you a large sized case of these elegant little fat reducers containing a good, generous supply, for seventy-five cents, and every little quantity should be enough to make a decided impression on your excess fat. Many have lost as much as a pound a day.

These Marmola Prescription Tablets may be used with impunity and likewise perfect confidence, for, being made strictly in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription, they are, of course, quite harmless. They are rather beneficial than otherwise, in fact, never disturbing the stomach or causing a wrinkle-flicker, will they? I'm not sure about that."

FOR SICK HEADACHE, SOUR STOMACH, LAZY LIVER OR SLUGGISH BOWELS

Turn the rascals out—the headache, the biliousness, the indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out tonight and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that misery-making gas; take the excess bile from your liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box means a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children—their insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

A Mercury on Roller Motor Skates

The latest application of the power of gasoline is to the human body itself, without any vehicle.

A Frenchman named M. Mercier has invented the motor-propelled roller skate shown in the accompanying picture, which is driven by a two-cylinder engine of one-quarter horse power.

M. Mercier's best performance with his motor skate so far has been a sustained speed of nineteen miles an hour for a distance of thirty-one miles.

A small gasoline tank and dry batteries are carried on a broad belt strapped to the inventor's waist. The gasoline is carried to the carburetor of the engine by means of flexible tubing.

On the right-hand side of the engine is a flywheel. This wheel revolves against another big wheel which is rubber tired and which projects in front of the skate.

By pulling on a strap the engine is tilted until the rubber-tired wheel touches the ground and pulls the skater along. By releasing the strap the revolving or power wheel is lifted off the ground by a spring, leaving the skater to continue by momentum only.

The engine is one of the smallest ever made for practical use and has attracted the attention of engineers all over France. M. Mercier is said to have experimented a long time before being able to bring his invention to working perfection.

Twenty Famous Men

A Poor Farmer

By THOMAS TAPPER

I.

IT is amazing what can be done by a man who has an idea in his head, provided he sticks to his idea until he gets it out into the open.

When this happens, everybody wonders how he did it.

But the man knows. There are four reasons why it happened:

(1) Stickto-itiveness. (2) Inspiration. (3) Perspiration. (4) Pleasure in doing the work called for by the idea.

Somebody expressed the opinion recently that a lot of bosh and nonsense is being written these days about loving your work. The writer seemed to have the idea that most people do not love their work, and couldn't if they tried; that most work isn't worth doing, etc., etc.

But we do not see any article written as to how to hate work and hate it hard. No one would spend time writing or reading such an article, BECAUSE THE SENSE OF THE MIND IS AGAINST IT. Most people know that to hate work only makes matters worse. And the man whose day's labor does not give him joy generally finds something to do on the side that does.

Take the case of Robert Burns, Scotch poet—truly a famous man. He was born poor, he stayed poor all his life. He succeeded in getting into trouble with great frequency. He tried all his life to get a steady living out of the soil of Scotland, and said he got was certainly scant.

I do not know whether he loved to break his back and fill his body with pain over the filling of his land, but I do know that all the time he was plowing and digging and planting he was thinking of the land that gave him birth, of the people who, like himself, were struggling in Scotland, and that all their life also their passions so filled his mind that he became a famous man by working this idea over in his head, and then bringing it out into the open.

He finished his job is known as the "Poems of Robert Burns."

Burns has been dead a good many years, and yet every general book store finds itself compelled to keep his poems in stock. People loved his verses in his lifetime, and they love them today, and they will, one time tomorrow; and they will keep on paying out their money just to read the thoughts of a man who spent all his life with his body aching from the toil of the fields.

Now the gist of the whole matter is this. The fact that Burns had to work in the fields, has to haul a hoe near the dirt of the earth, knowing all the while that most of his countrymen were doing the same thing—MADE HIM THINK.

When he had thought about it all day, he would plod home at night, climb a ladder to a little room under the eaves, and then try to put on paper the great Scotch problem of his times: HOW TO BE TRUE TO YOURSELF, THOUGH POOR. It is all told in the poem, "The Cotter's Saturday Night." Read that poem, and you will be convinced that there is no deception in a man loving work. Then settle down to business and begin to do things.

II.

It is all a question of what may be called deep-seat thinking, of wide-open eyes, and a wide-open mind. The tired Spring feeling soon begins to stay by a man for twelve months in the year, and the result of this is that he is dead long before he dies.

When you read the poems of Burns, if you ever do—keep this fact in mind: HE WROTE ABOUT THE LIFE HE LIVED. About its conditions, its poverty, its great joy (read John Anderson), its fun and humor (read Tam o' Shanter), its capacity for love, and its wonderfully lofty sentiment (read To Mary in Heaven).

He did not have to go to distant times and countries for his subject. He wrote about what he saw and felt. He made plenty of mistakes and false steps as he went along, but he stuck close to that one great idea—the life of the people.

If you want to write, or if you want to speak, follow his rule. Write and talk about what you see and feel. A person who does this can succeed even without a great education. Burns had practically none. And yet he is remembered, though many a learned man of his day is entirely forgotten.

If learned people who are soon forgotten can take a [illegible] and write about it, and people will listen [illegible]

There is no other way.

So don't hate what you do. Try to learn [illegible]

Fables of the Wise Dame

By DOROTHY DIX.

ONCE upon a time there was a Man whose Wife, after a Virtuous and well-spent Life, threw up her Earthly Job and signed a Permanent Engagement with the Angel Choir.

At first the Man was greatly Afflicted for they had been married many years and Wife was strictly the Goods in the Culinary Department. Besides which, it seemed lonesome to the Man not to have any one to Remind him of his Faults and he felt that Something was missing when he went Home Late and found nothing happening in the Lecture Bureau.

Now during his Wife's Lifetime the Man had devoted himself to doing Turns in the Grocery Line, and he had Fallen for all of the Privileges of Area.

He dressed as he Pleased and was accustomed to say that he Thanked his Maker that he was not one of those Fool Dudes who sacrifice Comfort to Fashion.

So he wore low, turned-down collars that did not Chafe his Neck, and Broad-Soled Shoes, and he hung on to a Loose Old Coat until it got rusty.

Neither did he care for Society, and before his Wife could Inflict him to take her out to any Place of Amusement she had to Hypnotize him.

It was not long, however, after his Wife's death that the Man began to Take Notice, and his Friends observed a great Change in his Personal Appearance.

He bought a Set for Joyous Hallelujahs and he wore a Collar so Tall that it looked like a Section of a Sewer Pipe.

Moreover he shaved the Alfalfa off his Chin, and dyed his Hair a deep Piratical Black, and he got a Gait on his Patent Leathers like a Rah-Rah Boy.

"We perceive," said his Friends, as they got a Line on this Splendor, "that the Real Secret of the Elixir of Youth is to Get a Wife, for that is the Sort a Man needs to rejuvenate him is to lose his Wife."

A Social Butterfly

Besides this Sartorial Triumph, the Man took an Active Part as a Society Butterfly. When he did Pedestrian Wonders toting around Tea at Afternoon Functions, and Work a while for a Real, as he picked out a Beauteous Young Maiden and asked her to be his Bride, although they Lacked about forty years of Jrotting in the same Class.

"Adorable Creature," he cried, "Be mine I am sure that if my sainted Maria could look down upon us, you are the Very One she would pick out to console me for her Loss. I love you to Distraction, besides which I have a large sized Wad, although I am Aware that if you Marry me it will be for Love Alone."

The Maiden was, indeed, a Heart Grafter, and she was as Wise as she was Beautiful, so she took a good, long think over the Matter.

"As a general rule, she reflected, I do not care for Men who are over Middle Age, but I suppose that being an Old Man's Darling is better than Cooking for a Young One, it's me for the Old Stuff.

"Besides which he appears to adore me, and they Married then the Man Resumed being an Old as he had been before he was a Widower. He also left off his Loud Rags and got back into his Old Clothes, and when she mentioned, going out to the Theatre or a Party, he began to Groan with the Rheumatism.

A Bitter Surprise

More than that, he began to knock her faults and to tell her how his first Wife used to Keep House and set a Comfortable Table on Three Dollars a Week, and how she never desired any Amusement except to sit up and watch him read the Paper of an Evening.

In reality the first Wife had been a very ordinary Creature with a Temper that could Talk a Phonograph to a Stand still but the Man fooled her to his Second Wife as a Paragon of Perfection.

One Night when he had been doing this he observed the Bride weeping bitterly.

"Why do you Cry?" he asked.

"Alas!" cried the new Wife, "I weep for your First Wife. Nobody can regret or Deplore as much as I do.

Moral: This Fable tells thee that it is better to be a Young Man's Darling than an Old Man's [illegible]

IOWA WOMAN WELL AGAIN

Freed From Shooting Pains, Spinal Weakness, Dizziness, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ottumwa, Iowa.—"For years I was almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms: shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the United States, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors. I feel it my duty to tell you these facts. My heart is full of gratitude to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my health." Mrs. HARRIET E. WAMPLER, 524 S. Ransom Street, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Consider Well This Advice.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

Inside the gates of the mysterious Forbidden City, from whose portals no white man has ever returned alive, Claude Delaire and Desperate Desmond are now prisoners. Rosamond dare not approach the gate, but her field glasses may enable her to peek through the keyhole and get a inkling of what is going on.

If you could have peeked through the keyhole of the massive gate at this moment you would have seen Claude and Desmond bound together and helplessly awaiting the awful punishment which the Chinese meet out to those who enter the precincts of the Forbidden City. At such a time enmities are forgotten and both face the peril together.

Rosamond, although you can see no way of aiding her lover, cannot bring herself to leave the spot, and as she lingers about the door she sees the Chinese letter carrier come to deliver the mail. Even he is not allowed within the gates and has to shove the letters under the door. Rosamond holds it tight. The beautiful heroine now sees a gleam of hope for the rescue of her gallant lover from the vindictive Chinese.

With a hairpin and a hairpin a woman could conquer the world. As Rosamond, with her quick eyes, notices one of the letters sticking half-way under the door, she jabs a hairpin through it and then she has a plan.

Finding that for some reason he cannot pull the letter in under the door, the guardian of the gate is compelled to swing open the heavy door. Then to his surprise he is confronted by Rosamond, gun in hand. The cowering Celestial is quickly compelled to release Claude and also Desmond, although the latter doesn't deserve it.

"I'm the boy!" cries Desperate Desmond, "and Rosamond's a pippin." The brave girl has rescued both Claude and Desmond from the Chinese and they are now departing with all possible speed from the neighborhood of the Forbidden City. Hero and villain have formed a temporary truce, and tomorrow we shall see how they keep it.

DURING THE MATINEE PERFORMANCE MY LEADING MAN VANISHED BEFORE MY VERY EYES!—
'TWILL SOON BE TIME FOR THE EVENING SHOW—TAKE US TO YOUR THEATRE!
I WAS OUT HERE IN FRONT, WATCHING THE PERFORMANCE. THE LEADING MAN WAS OVER THERE ON THE RIGHT SIDE OF THE STAGE, BOWING IN ANSWER TO AN ENCORE. WHEN HE WAS SUDDENLY VANISHED ABSOLUTELY—LIKE A PUFF OF SMOKE!
LET US GO UP ON THE STAGE—COME WATSO.
HE WAS STANDING OVER HERE ON THE RIGHT WHEN HE VANISHED?—
I WOULD LIKE TO INVESTIGATE THE ROOM UNDER THE STAGE!
I GUESS SHERLOCKO'S AT A LOSS FOR A CLUE!
VERY WELL—I'LL TAKE YOU DOWN.
HERE'S THE DOOR, LEADING TO THE ROOMS UNDER THE STAGE, BUT FOR SOME REASON OR OTHER IT'S LOCKED—
THAT'S ENOUGH—NOW TAKE ME TO THE DRESSING ROOM OF THE MAN WHO MUST PLAY YOUR LEADING MAN'S ROLE TO-NIGHT AND THE KEY HAS BEEN REMOVED!
WELL, HAMFATTO, YOU PULLED THE LEADING MAN THRO' THE TRAP DOOR AND LOCKED HIM IN UNDER THE STAGE SO YOU COULD TAKE HIS PLACE TO NIGHT, EH?
WELL, THAT'S THE ONLY WAY I THE WORLD'S GREATEST TRAGEDIAN CAN GET A CHANCE TO SHOW THE PUBLIC SOME REAL ACTING
POOR OLD HAMFATTO!

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

COPPERS STRONG AT N. Y. OPENING; SOME DISCUSSION ABOUT G. E. MELON

By W. H. ROSS

STATE STREET, March 14—Midday—The Boston market was fairly strong at the start, with Shattuck and Ely Mattie among the copper stocks which were bidded. In the first hour it broke rather unsteady and then irregular.

The New York market was rather irregular at the start, with coppers on the up grade and International Harvester preferred before dividend. Electric, Amalgamated and American Sugar were higher.

Copper Shares in Demand.

When the New York market opened today interest was chiefly divided between the demand for International Harvester and copper shares. The former touched upward 1½ on brisk buying while American Smelter gained ¾, and Guggenheim Exploration ⅝ higher.

Although there was no actual display of weakness in the early trading, declines were made in a number of issues. These were generally unimportant in character.

The specialties were active, and there was a good demand for many of them.

United States Steel common opened unchanged, but rose ⅛ to 63⅜. United Fruit and Pacific was sold rather freely, losing ½. Erie common and Southern Railway lost ⅛ each. Canadian Pacific was easier in London, but was supported here and opened ⅛ up. The Coal stocks were irregular.

London Market Is Uncertain.

Owing to uncertainty over the outcome of coal strike conferences, the London market is not showing much activity today, and gilt-edged investments are inclined to droop and lower rails have a heavy tone. American shares are firmer and the demand for Canadian Pacific is small. Mines opened the day with an upward tendency, but soon showed a reactionary tendency, where long profit taking in rubbers and oils. De Beers declined to 20, a fraction yesterday's final quotation, and Rio Tintos went down to 72¼, a loss of ⅝.

Spot copper opened at £64 15s., off 6s. 3d.; futures at £65 10s., off 6s. 3d. Bar silver at 26 1/16 d., unchanged. Platinum was firm, with spot at £191, up £1 10s. small. Mines opened the day with an upward tendency, but soon showed a reactionary tendency, where long profit taking in rubbers and oils. De Beers declined to 20, a fraction yesterday's final quotation, and Rio Tintos went down to 72¼, a loss of ⅝.

Consols are unchanged at 78 for money and 78⅛ for account. Money is quoted at 2¾ per cent. Discount rates, short bills 3⅝@3⅝, per cent; for three months 3⅝@3⅝, per cent.

No Harvester Dissolution?

Wall Street is very much interested in the report that the department of justice in Washington is going to be nicer to the International Harvester company than was expected. Intimations that had been expected. Traders got the impression that the government is willing to let the corporation readjust itself in a way that will make its operations non-conflicting with existing anti-trust law provisions, and that the company would not be forced to dissolve. Cyrus H. McCormick is president of the International Harvester Company, and when he was asked what plans had been agreed upon by the government and the corporation he stated that conferences were still being held, but that nothing had been settled. Yesterday the price of Harvester stock shot up. With the market in its present condition it is pretty safe to assume that some folks have inside information—or think they have.

General Electric May Cut Melon.

It is rumored that General Electric will soon increase its capital from $77,000,000 to $100,000,000, and that the new stock will be issued to stockholders pro rata at par, each to take a fine melon. The stockholders all hope the rumor is true. But there is no authoritative statement behind it. It was reported on State street within the days that General Electric was dickering with the East Boston Land Company for a large block of land on which to erect a new factory. Nothing definite has been done. Some of the standard British securities been well upheld in the face of one of the most extraordinary labor difficulties in the history of the empire, but there has been a pretty good demand for American shares as well. It is possible that there is truth in the report that as soon as the miners have had what they think is a sufficient vacation, and mine operators are satisfied with what they obtain as extra profits for the price of coal, there will speedily be an agreement and the underground toilers will go back to work.

Speculation in Oil Shares.

It is said that there is a great deal of speculation in oil shares in London now. When coal now scarce the oil companies promise to see a great future for liquid fuel. In view of British cooperation it is not unlike to assume that things will get back to normal prices the British will realize its use for locating this and other purposes without regard to the temporary use of it in the coal strike, and the Rockefeller fortunes. No people in the world use more burner factories than stores as warm as Americans do. The climate in the British Isles and most of Northern Europe is one of cool days prepared with New England weather.

In regard to the report that coal strike in this country there is a great diversity of opinion as to how much fuel the roads have stored up for an emergency of that kind. The story is there is enough for 5,000,000 tons on hand. Another is that the amount is not over 1,000,000. Thomas W. George F. Baer and his associates are men of foresight, and in spite of a cold winter, unusually large quantities of anthracite in the East it is no more than fair to say that they have got to be forehanded. A coal strike means high prices for coal, which the public will pay, and more profit to the operators

The Workers of Lawrence Have Shown Themselves Men—Let Them Be Magnanimous in the Hour of Victory

The mill owners have surrendered—completely surrendered. The workingmen of Lawrence have won one of the greatest industrial victories which has ever been fought in this or any other land.

In the struggle they have surprised the country by an exhibition of qualities usually thought to be absent from men and women whose lot in life has so severely limited their experience, training and knowledge.

Coming from remote parts of Europe and Asia, strangers to our language, to our political institutions and our customs, speaking twenty-five different languages, strangers to each other, each of the twenty-five groups knowing as little of the language and customs of the other as they all know of the language and customs of this country, they have stood together through this long and bitter contest with a solidarity, self-restraint and purpose which would do credit to the veterans of a long established labor union of skilled workmen born and bred in this country.

Their owners had cut down their wages with as little consideration of their feelings and with as little attempt to explain and to justify the reduction as if they had been reducing the rations of some dogs in their kennels.

But in the heart of hearts of every mill owner and agent today, there is a secret respect for these men which they never entertained before. Hereafter it may be assumed as certain that the grievances of these textile operatives will meet with the consideration which belong to manhood, an attribute which their employers were scarcely inclined to acknowledge in them.

When the victorious workingmen accept the surrender of their employers and go back to their work flushed with victory, there is still some self-restraint needed, lest a little of the fruits of the victory be lost.

With the liberty of a newspaper which has given tokens of its friendship in bad weather, the AMERICAN ventures to advise the operatives to heed the words of one of our greatest Presidents at a time when his contest was not ended, and when he was looking down upon a battlefield which had been wet with the blood of fifty thousand American soldiers, and while the magnanimity of a complete victory could not sustain him. Lincoln yet found it in his heart and wisdom to advise the nation, "with malice toward none and charity for all," to heal up the wounds of strife.

Have no malice towards your employers and have charity for the poor fellow who did not help you in the contest, but, as often happens, must profit by your sacrifices and the risks you took which he was not willing to take. You can content yourself with the knowledge that the honors, at least, are yours, and that yours also was the character, courage and the wisdom to participate in this struggle and see it out to its victorious end.

It is better to bring the men who deserted your ranks, or who would not join them in the beginning, into your organiaztion and train him with the new light which he has received, than to bear malice. He is the weak one among you and the most in need of your sympathy.

Business Interests Demand Widening of Avery Street

One of the proposed improvements in Boston that certainly commends itself to the good sense of business men is the widening of Avery street. Avery is the alley-like street that connects Washington and Tremont between West and Boylston streets.

It looks so much like a blind alley, because of the deflection of the street near Tremont, that many Bostonians do not know that it actually runs through between the city's two great business thoroughfares. Located, as it is, in the heart of the busiest business section of the city, the widening of the street would do a great deal to relieve the congestion that is a distinct detriment to business progress.

This street, only used by well posted pedestrians now, will be BADLY NEEDED to relieve Winter street, now always crowded, when the Cambridge subway station at the head of Winter street opens.

The block pierced so ineffectually by Avery street is one of the largest in Boston. The big business concerns need an opening at that place that is adequate for vehicular travel. By all means widen this street, which is practically useless as it is.

Because of the cheap character of the structures on this street the proposed widening could be effected at comparatively small cost to the city. The widening of the street would be a STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION toward the safe and sane development of the city.

The extension of Arlington street would also make more available a large section of the city, now little used, that is needed for the extension of Boston's business area.

Why Childless Women Are Needed —AND— Motherhood—Its True Meaning

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner

I KNOW not whence I came,
I know not whither I go;
But the fact stands clear that I am here
In this world of pleasure and woe.

And out of the mist and murk
Another truth shines plain—
It is in my power each day and hour
To add to its joy or its pain.

I know that the earth exists;
It is none of my business why.
I cannot find out what it's all about;
I would but waste time to try.
My life is a brief, brief thing,
I am here for a little space,
And while I stay I would like, if I may,
To brighten and better the place.

The trouble I think, with us all
Is the lack of a high conceit.
If each man thought he was sent to this spot
To make it a bit more sweet,
How soon we could gladden the world,
How easily right all wrong,
If nobody shirked, and each one worked
To help his fellows along!

Cease wondering why you came—
Stop looking for faults and flaws;
Rise up today in your pride and say,
"I am part of the First Great Cause!
However full the world,
There is room for an earnest man.
It had need of me, or I would not be—
I am here to strengthen the plan."

Unfavorable Criticism Is the Result of Shallow Thinking

MANY critical women (and men as well) ridicule the fact that childless wives and spinsters belong to "Mothers' Clubs."

"What can such women know about bringing up children?" they ask.

"What impertinence it seems for women who have never been mothers to read papers or give addresses or stand up in a Mothers' Club and discuss the subjects which pertain to the interests of these organizations!"

These remarks are the result of shallow thinking.

We have in America a woman by the name of Jane Addams.

She has never been a wife or a mother.

But where in the whole world can be found a mother who has done for the human race what Jane Addams has done?

Where can be found a mother who has shown such a spirit of universal motherhood, such divine sympathy for wayward and erring young girls, as this unmarried woman has shown?

What mother could be so well fitted to speak in a Mothers' Club as she?

In a country village a poor boy whose mother had died when he was a little child (and whose stepmother was not the happy exception to the rule) became a neighborhood pest, with his mischief and pranks which bordered upon lawlessness.

The fathers and mothers of the town warned their sons and daughters against the boy, and he was shunned by all the respectable families.

One woman, a widow without children, made herself unpopular with her neighbors by inviting the boy to her home. She became his friend, she studied his mind, and she found that his mischief and lawlessness resulted from an overabundance of vital force which had no wholesome outlet. She led the boy into a line of constructive reading and experiment which resulted in his becoming an orderly and successful man.

A foolish young girl endangered her reputation by unwise conduct.

Her equally foolish mother failed to give her counsel or to help her find the path of prudence and circumspection.

Childless Woman Becomes Friend of Misled Girl

Not one mother of daughters or sons reached out a kindly hand.

But one mother of a daughter still-born became the friend and ultimate saver of the young girl.

She was one who (according to the criticisms of the average man and woman) was utterly unfitted to belong to a mothers' club or to speak or write on the subject of bringing up children.

Yet while the mothers of her town were pushing this young girl down by their coldly critical spirit, the childless woman saved her.

Innumerable cases can be cited where the sons of mothers who are eligible to mothers' clubs have led young girls to ruin.

But alas, the large majority of the mothers of these sons have used all their powers to try and defame the reputation of the young girls, in order to free their boys from the blame of being the misleaders.

When a mother is found who is great enough and kind enough to befriend and sympathize with the girl her son has wronged she goes down to history as a character of unusual worth, so seldom is she met with.

Look over your own circle of friends, regard your own town or neighborhood, and you will be astonished and pained to find how few mothers of your acquaintance have ever distinguished themselves as friends OF OTHER PEOPLE'S CHILDREN.

To be tender and kind and loving and loyal to one's own children is not a virtue. It is merely a decent and natural thing to be.

But the Mothers' Clubs are organized, not to make mothers fight like she wolves, in order to obtain the best privileges for their own, but to help women to be better CITIZENS, and to awaken in them the spirit of universal motherhood.

No woman can pride herself upon being a good mother unless she has in her heart a broad feeling of love and sympathy for all the boys and girls of other mothers.

The purely animal instinct to protect and feed her child, and to push it ahead of other children, at any cost, is not what constitutes ideal motherhood.

The mother cat does this, and she steals the food of other kittens to carry it home to her own, and feels she has done a fine act.

Mothers Who Condemn Other Children Do Harm

She has, from her standpoint.

But the mother who pushes down other children to advance her own, the mother who traduces the character of a young girl in order to cleanse the reputation of her erring son, is not a fine act. She occupies a higher plane in civilization than the mother cat, and more than animal instincts are expected of her. And Mothers' Clubs are organized that women may learn this fact. And women without children, possessing ideas and brains and hearts, are needed in such clubs.
